EMILY BURGER'S DEATH STORY TOLD

WITNESS SHOT IN MOHR AUTO

Girl Describes Journeys with the Doctor in Car; Tells How Both Were Wounded as Auto Stopped

Stir in Court When Widow and Accuser Confront Each Other; Daily Visits Are Admitted

Providence, Jan. 12.—With the eyes of Mrs. Elizabeth F. Mohr on her, Miss Emily Burger, whose rival she was supposed to be, took the stand in the Mohr trial this afternoon and told the story of the shooting of Dr. C. Franklin Mohr and herself on Washington road, Nayatt, on the night of August 31.

In a voice audible throughout the crowded court room she said:

"I heard the chauffeur say in a loud voice, 'Oh, my God,' as he got out of the machine. I turned around and saw the doctor. He fell toward me, on his left side. I felt something in my neck, at the back of my ear. I was shot twice. I fell over. I remember putting my hand up. I remember the chauffeur dragging me across the road."

Throughout this Mrs. Mohr sat motionless, seemingly unable to remove her eyes from the face of the woman who was said to have displaced her in her husband's affections.

STIR IN COURT.

It was at noon that Miss Burger's name was called by Clerk Root. The mention of the name of the woman who ranks second in interest only to the widow whom the State accuses of having hired Brown and Spellman to kill her husband because of jealousy for Miss Burger created a sensation.

A murmur was heard from the spectators, there was a shuffling of feet, a rustling, and everyone in court craned their necks to get a view of the much-discussed young woman. So noisy did the spectators become that a court officer was forced to demand order.

And then Miss Burger entered the room. She came through a side door, facing the jury box, and there was a gasp of admiration as she made her appearance. Tall and rather good looking, Miss Burger was dressed an-

Miss Burger's Story of Fatal Auto Trip

Miss Burger entered the courtroom through a side door, facing the jury box. She was tall and stately in appearance.

She wore a black coat and black dress. Her hat was a large-trimmed black affair, trimmed underneath with white lace. A veil covered her face. When she took her place on the witness stand she looked calmly around the room. Her gaze rested on Mrs. Mohr and then on the negroes.

Mrs. Mohr gazed steadily at Miss Burger. Brown and Spellman did the same. Miss Burger's face took on a crimson hue, and she turned away.

She was asked by Clerk Root to raise her right hand and the oath was administered.

Miss Burger lifted her veil, throwing it back over her hat. She then opened her long black coat and faced Assistant Attorney General Phillips.

Miss Burger testified that she got in the car with Dr. Mohr at 8:15 o'clock on the evening of August 31, to go with him to his villa at Williamstown, near Newport.

Q.—Was there anybody else in the automobile outside of you and Dr. Mohr and the chauffeur, Healis? A.—The dog.

Q.—Where was the dog? A.—He was on the right of the seat.

TELLS OF TRAGEDY.

Q.—Where was the doctor sitting? A.—He was on the right of me.

Q.—Where were you sitting? A.—I was on his left.

Q.—Where was the dog sitting? A.—In my lap.

"Tell your story to the court," requested Attorney Phillips. Miss Burger said:

"The chauffeur turned in toward the side of the road, stopped the car and put out the lights. I heard the chauffeur say in a loud voice, 'Oh, my God!' as he got out of the machine. I turned around and saw the doctor. He fell toward me, on his left side. I felt something in my neck, at the back of my ear. I was shot twice. I fell over. I remember putting my hand up. I remember the chauffeur dragging me across the road."

"I called, 'Help! Help!' Some ladies and gentlemen came along in a car. It took me to the Rhode Island Hospital."

SHOT WHILE IN CAR.

Q.—At the time of the shooting, did anybody come up to the side of the car? A.—No.

Q.—Do you remember when the chauffeur dragged you across the street? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—You said you were shot while in the car? A.—I was.

Q.—How did you know you were shot? A.—I felt a queer tingling in my head, at the back of the neck.

Q.—Do you remember what the chauffeur said when the car stopped? A.—I remember the chauffeur saying, 'my God.'

Q.—And after you fell into the roadway, out of the car, you were taken to one side by Chauffeur Healis? A.—Yes.

Q.—And then you were taken to the Rhode Island Hospital in another car? A.—Yes.

"Your honor, I object to a repetition of these questions," said Attorney Lewis.

The Judge told Attorney Phillips to proceed.

Q.—Do you remember where the doctor fell? A.—He fell over on his left side toward me.

Q.—Chauffeur Healis got out of the car? A.—Yes.

Q.—What did he do then? A.—He went to the left hood and raised it.

Q.—That is over the engine? A.—Yes.

Q.—Were the headlights out? A.—The head and side lights were out.

A clash between the counsel for the prosecution and counsel for the defence marked the opening of Miss Burger's testimony. Clashes were in evidence practically throughout the entire time she was a witness over the question Mrs. Mohr's counsel asked her in regard to her relations with the murdered physician.

"This is a murder case," said Attorney-General Herbert E. Rice. "We are not interested in the relationship between these two parties."

RULES AGAINST STATE.

"Your position is very inconsistent," rejoined Mr. Cushing, "because yesterday you stated that the motive for the crime was jealousy and revenge, and this was the girl you said Mrs. Mohr was jealous of."

Judge Stearns ruled against the State on every exception taken. The following questions were asked of Miss Burger by Attorney Arthur Cushing:

Q.—How did you happen to be going to Newport with the doctor on the night of August 31? A.—I was in his employment.

Q.—What were you, a secretary? A.—No; I was his housekeeper.

Q.—Were you not his secretary up until the week of the murder? A.—Yes, but I became his housekeeper that week, and was on my way to Newport to take charge of his house.

Q.—Is it not a fact that you were housekeeper of the Newport house for a full week before the murder? A.—Yes.

Q.—Then how did you happen to be in Providence? A.—I came up to get some additional clothes.

At this point Assistant Attorney-General Phillips again objected, but the court overruled his objection.

Q.—Had you ever been to Newport with the doctor before? A.—Yes.

Q.—How many times and what length of time did these visits cover? A.—I should say about a dozen times within a year.

Q.—How long have you known him? A.—About five years. He was a very

BOWLER IS SUED BY WOMAN

Rich Worcester Brewer Called Many Times on Telephone, Testifies Widow and Her Daughter

How John W. Bowler, the wealthy Worcester brewer, paid Mrs. Elizabeth A. Pinkham of Brookline $5,000 to return him his letters was brought out at the trial before a jury in the Suffolk Superior Court where Mrs. Pinkham is suing Bowler for $75,000 for damages, alleging slander. She charges that Bowler accused her over the telephone of theft, blackmail and extortion.

The testimony about the $5,000 paid to return the letters was brought out when Mrs. Mary E. Latta, Mrs. Pinkham's daughter, took the stand. She was asked under cross-examination:

Q.—You knew of the settlement between your mother and Mr. Bowler, didn't you? A.—Yes.

Q.—You knew the sum was $5,000, didn't you? A.—Yes.

Q.—The conditions were that she was to return correspondence of his? A.—Yes.

Q.—You knew that after the settlement that your mother continued to go out with Mr. Bowler, did you not? A.—Yes, I knew that they went out together occasionally.

TRACED TELEPHONE CALL.

Witness stated that it was all of two years before she knew of the nature of the conversations over the telephone between her mother and Bowler.

"After I had a conversation or two with him we compared messages," she said.

Mrs. Latta also told of a conversation she had with a person who referred to her mother in abusive language over the telephone. She testified that with the assistance of the telephone operator she traced the call and found that it was Mr. Bowler at the Hotel Touraine.

"I had the call traced," she testified, "I had Mr. John Bowler paged at the hotel and he answered to the call. I started to reprimand him for talking so and he cut me off."

Witness also testified that one time when she was talking with him on the telephone and she asked him to close his abusive language, as it was killing her mother, whereupon, according to the witness, Mr. Bowler replied, "Hope it would."

On another occasion, Mrs. Latta testified, Bowler called up, asked for Mrs. Pinkham, and on being told by the witness that her mother was sick, and almost dying, replied, "I hope she does," and laughed.

When Mrs. Pinkham resumed the witness stand today she identified a postal card and some telegrams which she swore she had received from Bowler.

In the specifications which were being read to the jury Mrs. Pinkham states that he used defamatory words, accusing her of blackmail and of extortion. Mrs. Pinkham alleges that Bowler repeated the slander to three other women.

In his answer Mr. Bowler denies the allegations of Mrs. Pinkham and further answer says that if it be proved that he accused her of blackmail then the charge is not a false but a true one.

One telegram which was read today

PRISONERS ATTACK SHAW

Penal Commissioner Reveals Alarming Extent of Attempted Jail Delivery at Deer Island

Penal Commissioner David B. Shaw revealed for the first time today, while testifying in the Suffolk Superior Criminal Court, that when the Christmas jail delivery was being planned at Deer Island, which was nipped by the island guards, the prisoners in the plan had a record-breaking arsenal of weapons.

In the cells of twenty-seven prisoners were found:

Twenty-six pairs of shears.

Twenty-four broken table knives, ground sharp, with handles covered with linen.

Three hammers.

A screw driver.

Dipper-handles.

Four pocket knives.

In all about sixty-five to seventy weapons.

"Enough tools," the commissioner admitted, "to finish the institution."

COMMISSIONER ATTACKED.

The commissioner testified that James Maxwell and Rexford LeBaron, two prisoners, assaulted him twice. This sensational item of Deer Island life has been kept from the public up to date.

There were thirty-two men in the jail-delivery plot. Nine were in "solitary." One man in "solitary" refused to enter the plot.

LeBaron threatened the commissioner's life.

Desperate attempts of Maxwell to escape were told by the commissioner. He told how Maxwell actually removed twelve inches of brick from the front wall of the "plant" or solitary cells between midnight and 1 o'clock one morning, got out of the "plant" into the prison yard, ran across to Shirley Gut, dived in, was seen, chased and hauled into a boat, which he tried to tip over. He was quieted by a rap on the wrist.

The frustration of the attempted

NAME SPRING-RICE IN SUIT FOR BILLION

Portland, Me., Jan. 12.—A suit for one billion dollars against Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, British ambassador; Lord Bryce, former ambassador, and John R. Keating, British vice-consul in this city, was filed today by Lewis J. Marshall of Lisbon Falls, Marshall, who was recently found guilty in the United States Court of using the mails in a scheme to defraud, charges conspiracy. The nature of the conspiracy could not be learned.

Papers were served on Vice-Consul Keating, who is the only one of the respondents in the jurisdiction of the Federal Court here.

One Keene, N. H., Man Murdered by Villa Bandits, One Escapes

Keene, N. H., Jan. 12.

TWO men from this city, Thomas B. Holmes and George W. Newman, were among the eighteen Americans taken from the Mexican train Monday by Villa bandits to be shot. Newman was among the seventeen shot.

Holmes was the only one to escape.

Holmes is a son of Judge and Mrs. L. W. Holmes of Keene. He is a graduate of the Keeleneek High School, also of the mining department of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. His wife and year-old child are in El Paso.

Mrs. Holmes is a granddaughter of the late Denman Thompson, the famous actor and playwright.

Immediately upon receipt of the news, Judge Holmes made every endeavor to get into touch with his son. He wired his daughter-in-law at El Paso last night. She answered that she believed her husband safe. Holmes visited his home here less than a year ago.

Newman was a son of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Newman, No. 49 Union street. He was graduated from the high school in 1898 and 1902 completed an engineering course at Dartmouth. While in school he was prominent in athletics, especially in basketball. Newman leaves a widow and a child.

GOVERNOR APPOINTS TWELVE

Governor McCall today sent the following appointments to the Executive Council for confirmation.

David T. Dickinson of Cambridge—Member of the Industrial Accident Board.

Frederick E. Greene of Pittsfield—State police.

Arthur G. Pollard of Lowell—Trustee Massachusetts Agricultural College.

Pauline Revere Thayer—Trustee Massachusetts General Hospital.

HERBERT L. PRATT of Hingham—Clerk Second District Court of Plymouth County.

GEORGE W. DOW of Lawrence—Medical examiner of Essex County.

VICTOR A. REED of Lawrence—Associate medical examiner of Essex County.

CHARLES M. DAVENPORT of Boston—Trustee of the Massachusetts Training School.

DUDLEY ROBERTS of Waltham—Clerk of the Second District Court of Eastern Middlesex.

ROBERT S. HARTSTONE of Falmouth—Master in chancery.

DENNIS HEALY of Hardwick—Trial Justice, Worcester County.

SAMUEL W. M'CASLIN of Weil-Beet—Master in chancery.

Pauline Revere Thayer (Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer of the Back Bay) is well-known in society circles. She takes the place of Mrs. Mabel Hunt Slater, who recently resigned from the Board of Trustees of the Massachusetts General Hospital.

There have been protests against the reappointment of Pratt, it being charged that Pratt had taken fees in excess of legal fees. The Council gave a hearing.

Messrs. Pratt, Dow, Reed, Dickinson, Davenport and Roberts are reappointments.

Former Governor Walsh made appointments to succeed these men, but they were turned down by the executive council. The appointment by the former Governor of Edward L. O'Brien of Marblehead to the Industrial Accident Board caused much agitation. It was finally left to a natural death with the outgoing council.

DEPUTY CAIN IS STRICKEN

Deputy Superintendent Laurence Cain of the Boston police department was stricken with apoplexy while on the way to his office today, and taken to the City Hospital.

It was said later that his condition was not serious and he would probably be removed to his home, No. 21 Waumbeck street, Roxbury.

Deputy Cain, who is sixty-five, left his home about 8 o'clock. He boarded a Dudley street car, and shortly before the car reached the terminal collapsed.

Policemen on the car went to his assistance, and he was taken to the hospital, despite his plea that he be taken to his office in Pemberton square.

Cain entered the police department in 1873, three years after Patrolman Thomas Carty, who is the oldest member of the force in point of service. In his early days Deputy Cain patroled the North End and waterfront. He was promoted to captain, going to the Lagrange street station, and became a deputy superintendent at the same time as William B. Watts and Philemon Warren.

CITIZENS OF U. S. KILLED BY VILLA

17 Americans and One Canadian Are Taken from Train, Stripped, Cruelly Beaten and Massacred

Armed Intervention Is Heard Among Demands at Washington; Americans Warned — Lansing

Washington, Jan. 12.—The brutal killing of seventeen American citizens by Villistas, described in today's news dispatches from Mexico and officially confirmed by the Carranza government, resulted in a storm of indignation in official circles here, and an emphatic demand by members of Congress that the administration take immediate and vigorous action in the matter.

In addition to the American citizens, one Canadian was slain.

Francisco Villa personally ordered the murder of the eighteen men, according to telegraphed statements.

The eighteen men were dragged from a train in Chihuahua early in the morning by the Villa troops, were stripped of their clothing, beaten almost into insensibility, and then were massacred.

The outrage is the worst of the many inflicted upon Americans in Mexico, and Congressmen declared it the crowning insult to the United States. In Texas feeling is running high, and a score of prominent Texans today wired President Wilson their conviction that the slaughter of the BOSTON SCHOONER LONG OVERDUE.

Anxiety prevails along the waterfront for the four-masted Boston schooner Horatio G. Foss, which sailed November 30 from Portland, Me., for Martinique with nine men aboard and a cargo of shooks. The voyage requires about three weeks. The vessel, owned by Crowell & Thurlow of Boston, and commanded by Captain Haines, has not been heard from for forty-three days.

seventeen Americans was the result of his "watchful waiting policy."

"This latest outrage is a fair sample of 'watchful waiting,'" declared Senator Fall of New Mexico.

Later dispatches stated that the bodies of the other Americans in the vicinity of the scene of the Villa outrage might now be in danger.

Inquiries at the State Department as to what course the government would take led to statements to reply that the department had "warned all Americans out of Chihuahua and Sonora last October 20."

Secretary of State Lansing declared that no American official had been authorized to grant permission to Americans to enter Southern Chihuahua.

TO BE DEPLORED.

Secretary Lansing said it was "to be deplored" that his advice to Americans "to keep out of the Mexican guerilla zone was not followed. He said every step would be taken at once to see that the perpetrators of "this dastardly crime" are caught and punished."

Telegrams urging armed intervention poured into both the State Department and the White House today, but it was said that these would probably be pigeonholed.

Congress awaits its active interest by a resolution in the Senate calling on the President to act, and to make intervention by Pan-American countries if needed as a last resort, and by a sweeping one agreed in a House resolution calling on the President to inform the House whether it is America's duty to intervene in Mexico and establish peace there.

In the Senate, Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire read a telegram from Judge L. W. Hollons of Keene, N. H., father of Thomas H. Hollons, only survivor of the massacre.

EXPECT BRITISH MOVE.

Meanwhile, diplomatic quarters showed the keenest interest in the latest murders in Mexico, and the belief was general that some word would be forthcoming from Great Britain on the death of the Canadian who was shot with the seventeen Americans.

It was stated that such a note from Great Britain would force the administration's hand, even if no action were taken in regard to the deaths of the American citizens.

At the same time Senators and Representatives, Republicans and Democrats, were severe in denunciation of the President policy, and the vigor of their statements indicated action by them to force a change in the "watchful waiting" attitude.

At the White House Secretary Tumulty said the President "would await all positive facts before deciding on any change in policy, and stated that "there was no intention of issuing any statement dealing with the murders at this time."

"We do not want to assure the public that we will do our duty," concluded Tumulty.

AWAIT CARRANZA WORD.

It is the intention of the President and Secretary Lansing to take no further steps until word is received from General Carranza. Secretary Lansing said that while it was true that Carranza, at the time he was recognized, had agreed to protect Americans throughout the republic, he could not be expected to do so in sections controlled by rebels. He said that a demand for summary apprehension and punishment of the men guilty of taking the Americans off a train and killing them had been made on Carranza through the Mexican agent who is now with the head of the de facto government.

The first result of the general indignation in congressional circles came when Senator Sherman, Republican, of Illinois, introduced a resolution in the Senate calling upon the President to demand that Carranza give assurances of protection to American lives and property in Mexico and, failing to receive such assurances, to invite all the Pan-American countries to cooperate in intervention to restore peace and order.

The resolution declares that "anarchy and murder prevail throughout Mexico and that the government seems to be powerless to check it. The Senate referred the resolution to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

From Queretaro, Mexico, by way of Eagle Pass, Texas, came word today that Carranza had telegraphed to Chihuahua for full details of the murders and had ordered his agents to make an effort to apprehend the murderers.

The slaughter of the eighteen men took place early Monday morning near San Isabel, 200 miles south of the Texas border. They were all well-known mining men, most of them engineers. They were on their way to reopen the Cusi Huitachic mines in Chihuahua, and had been guaranteed protection by the Carranza government.

NEWS DELAYED.

The news of the murders was nearly forty-eight hours in reaching the United States. This resulted in earlier conflict as to the number of Americans killed. Early reports put the number at fifteen or sixteen, but later dispatches placed the number of Americans killed at seventeen.

The State Department has been notified that the bodies of all the victims had reached Chihuahua City. The department has wired Collector of Customs Cobb at El Paso to report immediately on "what the Americans were doing in Mexico."

The claim was made by the department officials that there was no "record to show that the men were given a safe conduct into Mexico."

From El Paso came a dispatch stating that H. C. Myles, the British vice consul there, was notified today that a representative of the English government had secured a sworn statement that Francisco Villa, the Mexican soldiers who massacred nearly a score of Americans Monday morning.

The statement was made by Higinio Mendoza, a Mexican, who was a passenger on the train from which the Americans were taken. As the Americans were being dragged out to their deaths Mendoza, following Dr. Mendoza's statement, cried:

I will teach the American government better politics than to recognize Carranza.

Mendoza's statement will be sent to the British embassy at Washington as soon as it reaches El Paso from Chihuahua.

LODGE VISITS LANSING.

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, ranking Republican member of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, was an early caller at the State Department. After he had been with Secretary Lansing five minutes, Leon J. Canova, head of the department's Bureau of Mexican Affairs, was called in. He took with him all dispatches bearing on the murders.

"This is a deplorable affair, but I cannot say what action should be taken yet," said Senator Lodge before seeing Lansing.

Vigorous action was urged by Representative Henry D. Flood, Democrat, chairman of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs. He said:

"Some action must be taken. It must be immediate and vigorous. We must stop the deplorable series of attacks on American lives and property in Mexico. I am not prepared to say what action would best carry out our purpose, but we must move and move at once."

Senator Fall, Republican, of New Mexico, said:

"Nothing else could be expected from our recognition of Carranza. However, I will not make a formal intimation time to act. The administration would have been hard put to answer my resolution without this incident. I don't know what it's going to do. Some of these murdered men I knew personally. This latest outrage is a fair sample of 'watchful waiting.'"

Indignation over the massacre was so great in Texas that the following telegram, signed by a score of prominent citizens, was sent to President Wilson:

LEFT SATURDAY MORNING.

The party of Americans left El Paso Saturday morning. The Cushuirachic Mining Company was one of the first to accept the promise of protection made by the Carranza government to the State Department. The company is owned principally by Potter Palmer of Chicago.

When officials of the company were asked whether or not any protest had been made to the Carranza government it was declared that such action would be "useless."

Thomas B. Holmes, an American citizen, was the only foreigner aboard who escaped death as far as could be learned from the advices that reached here early today. The versions of his escape came to El Paso. He said he hid in a hayrack on the train, where he heard the cries of the victims as they were tortured and finally put to death; the other said that he was at the end of the line of prisoners lined up for shooting, but dashed away at the command to fire was given and escaped the shots fired after him.

That other passengers on the train numbering about fifty and all Americans were not molested is taken by training men here as evidence that the massacre was Villa's grim notice of regret for the recognition of the Carranza faction by the United States.

INDIGNATION HIGH.

Indignation against the "carranza government" prevailed all along the border today when reports reached here that Carranza's officials had been asked to furnish a military guard for the train, but had refused, declaring there was no danger of attack. The Americans were going back to their work in the mines of Mexico after their employers had received assurances that the Carranza leaders that their interests would be protected. Only a few days ago General Alvaro Obregon, commander-in-chief of the Carranza armies, was struck in a banquet at Paso Del Norte urged Americans to return to Mexico and resume occupations. Soon after this Villa's power was broken forever, that the war in Mexico was at an end and that the resumption of commerce and industry was all that was required to restore normal conditions.

In connection with Villa's threat after the recognition of the Carranza government that he was no longer responsible for the safety of foreigners in Mexico, it was recalled here today that open enmity had existed for two years between General Manager Watson of the Cusi Mining Company, one of the massacred victims, and Villa.

THREAT BY VILLA.

Villa had frequently accused Watson of lending aid to the followers of General Huerta. Though these accusations are declared to have been unfounded, Villa could never be convinced of their falsity. After Carranza was recognized by the United States Villa summoned Watson and gave this warning:

Since your government has seen fit to recognize Carranza, I no longer consider myself responsible for the safety of yourself or your countrymen in the country dominated by me. Your country has advised you to leave Mexico. Now leave. If you ever come back I'll kill you.

Manager Watson hastily gathered up his men and left for the border on the night train, and it was on the welcome northward before Carranza troops took possession of Chihuahua City. After several weeks of idleness here Watson and his men expected a decree to return to their work.

Application for safe conducts and passports were made in their behalf to U. S. Collector Cobb and the Mexican consul, General Andres Garcia. These were granted.

"All I know about the matter," said Collector Cobb today, "is that two weeks ago several Americans came to my office and asked me to give them passports to go into Mexico. I informed them I had nothing to do with the matter, but would telephone Consul Garcia to give them the necessary safe conducts.

"When they asked me if I thought it was safe to go into Western Chihuahua, I brought their attention to a speech made by General Obregon, in which he assured all Americans that their lives would be safe if they entered Mexico.

"He assured them that what Villa could not harm them because he was beaten, and that if they went to Chihuahua they would be given full protection by the Carranza officials there.

"That is all I had to do with the affair."

Avery Couch, the only British subject killed, was a native of Canada. He was employed in the mechanical department of the Cusi Mining Company, of which Potter Palmer, Jr., of Chicago is said to be the president. Before entering the employment of the Cusi Company, Couch worked for the Northern Light and Power Company of Labouilla, Chihuahua.

A special train carrying Assistant General Manager Ryan of Cusi Company left the border shortly after midnight for Chihuahua to get the bodies of the victims of the massacre. The train was armed after Ryan had got into communication with Chicago and had received orders from his superiors to proceed at once to Chihuahua.

Mrs. Watson, a bride of only three months, wanted to leave on the train to get her husband's body, but was persuaded by her friends to stay at El Paso and await the arrival of the remains.

Both Mrs. Watson and Mrs. W. J. Wallace, wife of another victim of the massacre, collapsed when news of the tragedy reached them. Mrs. Wallace is still in a serious condition. She has two small children.

After the news of the massacre arrived at El Paso today managers of the various mining companies in Northern Mexico met here to decide whether to cancel their preparations for resuming operations. It was suggested at the meeting that all employes be called from Mexico until the Carranza government furnished guarantees to protect life and property.

After a long discussion, however, it was decided to defer definite action until word had been received from Washington as to what was advisable. In the meantime, however, no employe will be allowed to go into Mexico.

FIENDISH CRUELTY.

From telegrams that reached American and British officials and friends and relatives of the murdered men there were learned today gruesome details of the massacre.

They prove that the massacre was one of the most fiendish of the hundreds that have marked the course of the revolution in Mexico. Dragged from the train on which they were en route to resume operations in western Chihuahua, their passports from the Carranza officials at Juarez and Chihuahua proffered in the hands were stripped of their clothing and clubbed, bayoneted or otherwise tortured. Then their bodies were riddled with bullets and left lying beside the track near Santa Ysabel.

According to official messages received here by the American authorities, General Villa in person led the squad of soldiers, who held up the train just after it had passed the patrol post at Kilometer No. 68, and went through the train at the head of his men, searching for all American passengers. As fast as the Americans were found they were ordered out of the train. Those who were reluctant to obey the command to get off were prodded with the butts of rifles and bayonets and threw bodily out of the cars.

The massacre occurred about 4 o'clock in the morning. Most of the Americans were asleep when they were roughly awakened and hustled out of their berths. Every protest they made was met with curses and bayonet jabs.

To make certain that no Americans escaped the Mexicans went through the train twice. When assured that no others were aboard, they got off and completed their bloody task by shooting the helpless prisoners.

Approximately 5,000 American refugees are at El Paso, the nearest American point to Chihuahua City, ready for instant action should the United States decide on an expedition into Mexico. These troops are the Fourth, Sixth, Seventh, Eighth and Twenty-eighth Infantry; the Fourth Field Artillery and the Eighth Cavalry. They are commanded by Brigadier-General John J. Pershing.

ARMY READY FOR ACTION.

The entire mobile regular army is now massed on the border under command of Major-General Fred Funston, who is at Fort Sam Houston. His troops number approximately 25,000 men. War Department officials say today. The troops that can be rushed to El Paso immediately include the Ninth Cavalry, Batteries A and B of the Sixth Field Artillery and the Eighth, Eighteenth and Twenty-Second Infantry now at Douglas, Arizona.

The taking of these men from a Mexico Northwestern train 60 miles west of Chihuahua City, robbing them, stripping them naked and then shooting them in cold blood has stirred the national capital more than anything since the Columbus raid. The White House and State Department were today besieged by demands from Congress for action which will end the contempt in which this government now is being held south of the Rio Grande, and these demands came from influential officials who heretofore bowed to the administration policy of letting the Mexican factions "fight it out."

The sentiment for immediate armed intervention in Mexico today was growing among Senators and Representatives by leaps and bounds. It was argued that Carranza had had his opportunity to show that he was in a position to safeguard American lives and that he had lamentably failed.

General Obregon is understood to have arrived in Chihuahua City, only fifty miles from the scene of the outrage, and the men murdered in cold blood were traveling on passports issued by him. Why he did not safeguard the train in view of the knowledge that he must have had of the activity of the Villista bandits along the railway line is declared by officials here to be inexplicable.

England may aid in forcing the hand of the United States. Three of the Canadian among the victims of the latest outrage in Mexico.

President Wilson and Secretary Lansing were concerned. The latter went to his desk at midnight after the White House dinner to get details, and was back there long before the regular hour today. He personally directed that the American officials at El Paso and Chihuahua City be in all details.

Our representative with Carranza has been ordered to demand the immediate dispatch of an adequate military force to recover the bodies of the dead mining men and punish their murderers.

WHAT CAUSES COLDS?
A cold is really a fever, not always caused by the weather but often due to disordered blood or lack of important food-elements. In changing seasons fat-foods are essential because they furnish heat by stirring the blood and strengthen the system to withstand the varying elements. This is the important reason why Scott's Emulsion should always be taken for colds, and it does more—builds strength to prevent sickness.
Scott's Emulsion contains Nature's rare strength-building fats, so skillfully blended that the blood profits from every drop. It is free from harmful drugs and alcohol—always get the genuine.

War upon Pain!
Pain is a visitor to every home and usually it comes quite unexpectedly. But you are prepared for every emergency if you keep a small bottle of Sloan's Liniment handy. It is the greatest pain killer ever discovered.
Simply laid on the skin—no rubbing required—it drives the pain away instantly. It is really wonderful.

Sloan's Liniment

YOUR SICK CHILD IS CONSTIPATED! LOOK AT TONGUE

Hurry, Mother! Remove poisons from little stomach, liver, bowels.

Give "California Syrup of Figs" if cross, bilious or feverish.

No matter what ails your child, a gentle, thorough laxative should always be the first treatment given.
If your little one is out-of-sorts, half-sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look, Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently move from the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.
Mothers can rest assy after giving this harmless "fruit laxative," because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on each bottle.
Insist on genuine "California Fig Syrup." Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs." Every package is guaranteed to please you or the druggist will return your money. Adv.

TO SAVE EYES IS THE OBJECT OF THIS FREE PRESCRIPTION
Try It If Your Eyes Give You Trouble

Thousands of people suffer all the time with their eyes simply because they don't know what to do. They know some remedy for every other ill but none for their eyes. They abuse their eyes and neglect them. The trouble being too slight to drive them to an eye specialist. Finally they may go to some cheap store and buy glasses they go into debt for which after being worn two or three months do their eyes more harm than good.
Here is a simple prescription for such cases: 5 grains optona dissolved in 2 ounces of water. Bathe eyes four times a day to bathe the eyes. This mixture is a healing, cooling, soothing lotion that should be used daily to cleanse, strengthen and preserve the eyes. It sharpens the vision and quickly overcomes inflammation and irritation. Weak, watery eyes overworked, tired eyes are greatly benefited by its use.
Many reports show that wearers of glasses have discarded them after a few weeks' use. It is good for the eyes and contains no ingredient which can injure the most sensitive eyes of infant or aged. Any druggist can fill this prescription; any physician who knows the formula will tell you it is absolutely harmless.

KAISER IS DYING; REPORT

London, Jan. 12.—The Amsterdam correspondent of the Daily Express today says the Kaiser's condition is grave and there are rumors everywhere in Germany that he is dying.

"The Kaiser is confined to his private apartment and is nursed only by the Kaiserin," adds the correspondent. "He is absolutely broken hearted owing to the impending collapse of Germany's great military machine and the dangerous financial situation of the empire."

Color is given to reports that the Kaiser is near death by the publication of extravagant eulogies of the achievements of the Crown Prince in the German press.

A dispatch from Geneva to the Daily Express says the first operation on the Kaiser's throat was a failure, and a second operation has been ordered.

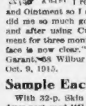
FACE ALL COVERED WITH ECZEMA

In Big Water Blisters. Itching Something Terribly. Always Scratching and Crying.

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT



"I worked in a mill where there was a lot of oil, and I got eczema. It was on my face which was all covered with big water blisters and it was itching something terribly and I was always scratching and crying. The skin was inflamed and red and I stayed up night after night and had to loaf for months.

"I had it for three years. I read about Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I sent for a sample, and it did me so much good that I bought more and after using Cuticura Soap and Ointment for three months I was healed and my face is now clear." Carson Attacks and Sec. Birrell Defends Ireland in Commons

London, Jan. 12.

SIR EDWARD CARSON, leader of the Tory Orange-Anti Home Rule group, and Augustin Birrell, the Irish Secretary, clashed in the House of Commons on the government's compulsory military service bill.

Sir Edward Carson declared:

I am profoundly disappointed with the way the coalition government has dealt with the matter of Ireland. Has Ireland done better than Great Britain in recruiting? She has not done half as well, and it is a great mistake to go on buttering her up, telling her she has done splendidly when she has not.

I make one more appeal to Mr. Redmond. It is that he consider whether Ireland cannot even now be included in the bill.

In my heart I believe that when the hour of victory comes, as it certainly will come, we who are Irishmen will feel the deepest shame to remember that we expected others to make sacrifices from which we provided our own exclusion.

The Rt. Hon. Mr. Birrell retorted:

The government never contemplated the application of the bill to Ireland, for they could not hope to establish in Ireland those appeal tribunals wherein the success of the bill in Great Britain depends.

Ireland has done wonderfully well, but I say, "Do not rush her."

Irish loyalty is a plant that has to be well watered, well nurtured, never pulled up by the roots.

If, before the war, anyone had told me that Ireland would do what she has already done, I would have stared at him in wild surprise, and whispered, "You don't know what you are talking about."

Who, remembering Irish history, dares say Ireland has not done amazingly well?

GALLIPOLI BOOTY FOR TURKS

By International News Service.

Constantinople, Jan. 12.—Attempts of the beleaguered British army in Jet-el-Amara (Mesopotamia) to deliver sorties against the besieging Turks have been repulsed, it is officially reported.

Great quantities of booty, left behind by the British when they evacuated the Tip of the Gallipoli peninsula, have fallen into the hands of the Turks.

The War Office announces the annihilation of small groups of British who refused to surrender. The official report follows:

"Irak front—On the night of January 6 the enemy, who had been surrounded in Kut-el-Amara, attempted at many points to make sorties, after a vigorous bombardment. These were repulsed with losses.

"Dardanelles front—On Monday evening a great amount of booty and many dead bodies remained on the ground of the old British camp at Sedd-el-Bahr, but not a living soldier remained.

"In the course of our pursuit the remained of the enemy who refused to surrender was overtaken and annihilated while trying to reach the landing places.

"On the left wing, in the sector of Kereves Dere, were discovered a great number of automatic mines, ninety of which were soon destroyed by our engineers.

"There was heavy firing between the Russian battleship Empress Maria and the Turkish cruiser Sultan Selim, in the Black Sea, on January 4. The Turkish cruiser was not damaged, but the Russian man-of-war was struck."

FLEEING GERMAN PRISONER ON VIRGINIAN

A wireless message was received today at the Boston office of the American-Hawaiian line from Captain Simmons of the Virginian bound to Boston from St. Nazaire, France, stating that he had a stowaway on board who was a German prisoner of war.

The stowaway is a German soldier who was captured by the French and placed in a prison camp near St. Nazaire. He escaped from the camp and stowed away on the Virginian.

The Virginian will arrive in Boston tomorrow and the escaped soldier will be turned over to the Immigration authorities by Captain Simmons. What is to be done with him is puzzling Commissioner Henry J. Skeffington, but it was said no action would be taken without special instructions from Washington.

Two Allied Planes Lost at Salonica.

By International News Service.

Vienna, via Berlin, Jan. 12.—Two allied aeroplanes that went aloft to give battle to the fleet of German aeroplanes during the air raid over the allies' camp at Salonica Friday were destroyed, it was announced today by the Bulgarian War Office. Seventy-eight bombs were dropped on Salonica and fires were started. The following official announcement giving the details of the raid was issued today:

"Twelve German aeroplanes on Friday, January 7, dropped seventy-eight bombs on Salonica, especially on the Anglo-French cantonments. Twenty of the bombs caused fires in the camp. Two enemy aeroplanes were shot down. The German aircraft suffered no loss."

FRENCH ATTACK IS HALTED BY ARTILLERY

By International News Service.

Berlin, Jan. 12.—Via Sayville Wireless, Jan. 12.—A strong attack was made against the German position northeast of Les Meenil, in Champagne, beneath the German fire, the War Office announced today. The French attempted to assume a counter-offensive in that part of Champagne, but the German guns prevented further assaults.

At least seventy persons were killed by the explosion of a German ammunition depot at Lille. The German War Office declares that the belief exists in Lille that the English were responsible for the catastrophe. The following is the text of the official report:

"West front — Northeast of Les Meenil, the French attacked the German position over a front more than half a mile wide.

"The assault broke down and the enemy hurriedly fled to their trenches under the accurate fire of our artillery, fire, prevented the French from repeating the attack.

"An ammunition depot belonging to a pioneer detachment in a fort on the southern side of the city of Lille exploded. Seventy persons are known to be dead and fifty are wounded. The houses in the neighborhood were knocked down and the streets torn up.

"Citizens of Lille helped the German soldiers in the relief work. It is believed there that the English were responsible for the catastrophe.

"Yesterday when the Germans again shelled the railway station at Solesmes it was noticed that the Red Cross flag, which has been kept flying near the station for some time, had disappeared.

"Eastern front—Attempts by the Russians to advance near Tenenfeld, southwest of Illuxt (On the Dvinsk front), failed. North of Koscielnovka, a German patrol drove a Russian advance guard back to its main positions.

"Balkan front—There is nothing to report."

RUSSIANS MAKE GAINS IN EAST

Special to the International News Service and London Times.

Petrograd, Jan. 12.—The Dvinsk correspondent of the Bourse Gazette reports that the Germans have begun the evacuation of Poneviezs in the Baltic provinces.

Everything valuable is being hurriedly loaded into motors and conveyed to Shavli, Libau and the interior of Germany.

The Zeppelin sheds have also been dismantled.

"I Like the Jurors and I Feel Safe in Their Hands," Declares Mrs. Mohr

By MRS. JACQUES FUTRELLE.

Providence, Jan. 12—From a woman's point of view, the jury that has been chosen to sit in judgment on Mrs. Elizabeth Frances Mohr and the two accused negroes, Cecil Victor Brown and Henry Spellman, is an odd looking group.

No prisoner of drama in this country—or any other country for that matter—could have chosen more characteristic men. If he had searched the stage from end to end; which only goes to prove the worn-out saying that sometimes truth is stranger than any fiction we can invent.

No need for clever phrasing to draw startling contrasts. The contrast is before you. Those twelve good men and true are as noticeably dissimilar that it could not be disregarded even if one tried.

Nature has taken the job of inventing away from us, and we have only to look down plainly on the characters as we perforce must see them; large men and small, short and tall, fat and thin—twelve men as different as if they had been selected that way for an especial purpose.

At left, ex-Mayor John J. Fitzgerald of Pawtucket, attorney for Mrs. Mohr, talking with Judge Stearns.

YOUTH IS MISSING.

The one thing missing is youth. Not one really young man in all the twelve, not one while in his examination, gave the impression of enthusiasm. I think it is safe to say that the men who compose this jury know life from the experience of years, and that their deliberations will be shorn down to hard, relentless facts.

Charles Clark, the foreman—and who was chosen for that position very much against his wishes—is rather tall, spare, wiry, with grey hair and mustache. He has good, clear eyes—none of the twelve wear glasses—and one would make a guess that he was capable of good, clear judgement.

He wears a soft, light gray shirt of flannel and a gray tie. His suit is black, but in the glare of the light from the huge window at his side appears green. He looks with interest at all times at whoever is speaking and seems to pay the strictest, most conscientious attention.

He sits calmly, his hands folded in his lap, and usually with his legs crossed. He is a painter from Stillwater. His especial characteristic is that when particularly interested he blinks his eyes quickly.

He, of course, sits first in line in the jury box, but farthest away from Justice Stearns. He is within three feet of the Attorney-General's table, but can hardly observe Mrs. Mohr at any time, as she is almost on a direct line with him and hidden by those half-dozen persons who sit between. He has a better chance to observe the negroes, who sit facing him across the enclosure, although today he did not glance about the room at any time.

At the time of his examination he gave a slight indication that he possesses a sense of humor, although to look at him one would not suspect it. In answer to a pertinent question he said that his observation of life had taught him to form his own opinions.

My individual opinion, based entirely upon my impression of him, is that he is the fairest, quietest sort of a man and can be trusted to see that a person, man or woman, is going to be treated to the best of his ability and intelligence. He appears to be the exactly proper man for foreman.

Alfred Duhamel comes from Manville and is a clerk. He is of ordinary stature, clean shaven, rather inclined to plumpness, and bears a striking resemblance to William Jennings Bryan.

He is caused by his smiling countenance or his bald head it is hard to say, although Mr. Duhamel's smile seems one rather suggesting a pleasant view of life than just whether this resemblance the smug smile of Mr. Bryan.

He wears a black suit, white linen collar, and his personality seems to be reflected in the way he wears his cravat. A gold chain is looped in a buttonhole of the left lapel of his coat. The watch evidently dangles in the pocket just underneath, easily accessible.

I am sure he is a man who never misses an anniversary, however trivial it may be. A good natured, smiling countenance would indicate that one follows the line of the least resistance. His face—perhaps on account of the smile—is the most attractive of all the jurors.

He always regards with interest the person speaking. He, accent, but does not in the least suggest a foreigner. His well modulated voice was a most natural accompaniment to his smile.

FARMER HAS STRONG FACE.

Harry L. Shawcross, a mill hand, of Johnston, is the best tailored man on the jury. He is clean cut, good looking without being striking, has a pleasing countenance, and a good straightforward gaze.

He wears a dark blue serge suit of especially good cut, white linen collar, and a dark four-in-hand that smacks a little of being exceptional. His voice in examination was low and well modulated, and he gave an indication of a calm, clear view of life. He impresses a woman as being a man from whom she could expect more than ordinary courtesy.

William F. Shotwell, a farmer from Glendale, is next in line, and is the most characteristic of all the characteristic twelve men. He looks like a rugged son of the soil, with a great big heart and slow but generous impulses.

His face is strong, clean shaven, his eyes deep set, his chin protrudes with strength and has a deep cleft in it. His mouth, which is large, drops at the corners. Occasionally he licks his lips, but he does not do so nervously.

He is, no doubt, the calmest personality in the calm group of twelve. He wears a dark suit, a characteristic dark tanned shirt and no tie. His gray hair is plenty or abundant; he parts it low on the side—the right, I think—and a characteristic forelock drops down upon his calm, placid forehead.

For his evident age he is not wrinkled. He looks as if he led a healthy, normal life, during which he evidently does. He sits lower in his chair than the other men, and gives one the impression that he could sit there all day.

HEYES APPEARS ALERT.

Robert D. Heyes, a decorator from Central Falls, is alert. He is neither thin nor fat, but his size once and for all is impressed upon your mind. I think this is because of his hair, which is slightly auburn and very wavy. It is parted low on the side in the middle and curls stand upon his head in rather impudent fashion. Nothing gives him an inquiring look.

He walked to the witness box firmly and decidedly, and when questioned answered clearly. He is neatly dressed, and is the only man in the jury box who wears a striped tie. He is clean shaven, has characteristic rather than aged wrinkles in his face, and his ears are of medium cleft.

William H. Greene, farmer, from Cranston, does not look the part. He might be anything in the world but a farmer. Nothing about him suggests an outdoor life except a good, healthy complexion.

He has clean-cut features, black mustache and hair, what little hair he has. He is very bald. His gray eyes are clear and keen friendly.

He sits leaning continually against the left arm of his chair with his left hand always over his chin. Occasionally he pulls his mustache and rubs his nose. He is the only man on the front row who does not sit with his hands folded in his lap; he does not strike one as being nervous. He wears a dark suit, white linen collar, dark four-in-hand and a light gray sweater vest.

J. Austin Snape certainly does not look what his name suggest—a dapper English type. He is a storekeeper from Hasbrouke, and is just a typical American. He is undoubtedly the youngest man on the jury, at least he looks it.

His light hair, however parted low on the left side and brushed flatly across an extremely broad—rather than high—brow suggests a certain loss of hair. He is the shortest man of the twelve, has good strong features, without being remarkable in any way, and good healthy skin.

He seems to have no startling characteristics, unless we except his rather unusual name. He wears a dark suit, linen collar and dark four-in-hand tie of light gray is an extremely light gray. He sits quietly in the box, but his extremely strong chin dropped against his collar, and his dark eyes look out from under his extremely thick and heavy brow. Still there is nothing vindictive in his glance.

His eyes are piercing, perhaps because of their blackness, but they are friendly eyes. He occasionally looks startled when a point is made. He usually changes the direction of his gaze without moving his head.

Otis C. Hill, farmer, from South Scituate, is an odd looking as his name. He is tall and gives one the impression of droopiness. His shoulders droop, his mouth droops, his large reddish mustache droops.

His chin does not suggest an inclination to recede so much as how large and unlike nose is protrude. His very low linen collar makes his neck look longer than it should. Personally I think he is the most sympathetic man in the jury. And I know it is what that gives me the impression.

John Curtis, lumber dealer, is tall and thin. Except for his light mustache, he has nothing in extension or attitude that marks him as unusual in any way. He would, ordinarily, not attract attention.

He is clean shaven and his face has no particular lines, although he does not appear young. His hair is neither light nor dark; he wears it brushed rather low on his brow. He also wears a dark suit and four-in-hand.

Elihu H. Mowry, farmer of North Smithfield, Fray of mustache and hair, is another typical farmer. He is a husky, healthy looking outdoor man from his complexion and his rugged frame.

Somehow one suggests to a woman a good father and that sort of thing. His face is lined, but hardly with any particular worry—just weather, not rugged. He pays strict attention to everybody and everything, and I have a feeling that he is a man of good sound judgement.

Of the last man of the twelve, Charles E. Drugan, mill hand, of Harrisville, is an unusual looking man. The pallor of his skin is in startling contrast to the healthy glow of all the other jurymen.

I asked Mrs. Mohr if she was satisfied with the jury and she answered:

"I am quite satisfied."

"Would you prefer a younger jury?" I asked her.

"I hadn't thought of it!" she replied. "All these men I feel perfectly safe with them."

She leaned against the table while she waited for her attorney Mr. Cushing to escort her from the room. It had been an especially hard day for her, although she had not been compelled to make the trip to the scene of the crime. But the afternoon was taken up in listening to some very plain things that fell from the lips of the dreamy Abbott C. Phillips, assistant prosecutor. To it all Mrs. Mohr sat impassive, but attentive.

The arrival from McKeesville, Pa., of her brother and sister of her husband, Augustus Mohr, and Mrs. Ellen Hogan has cheered her. To my question today as to how she was feeling, she answered in the most natural way:

"Very well, thank you."

So far she does not show the strain of the ordeal through which she is passing. She is a woman of marvellous self possession and truly great courage.

MOHR JURY AN ODD-LOOKING GROUP

From a woman's point of view the jury that has been chosen to sit in judgment on Mrs. Mohr is an odd-looking group. No one could have chosen more characteristic men.

These twelve men are so noticeably dissimilar that it could not be disregarded even if one tried.

Nature has taken the job of inventing away from us, and we have only to look down plainly on the characters as we perforce must see them; large men and small, short and tall, fat and thin—twelve men as different as if they had been selected that way for an especial purpose.

The one thing missing is youth. Not one really young man in all the twelve, not one who, in his examination, gave the impression of enthusiasm.—From Mrs. Futrelle's story on the jury which is hearing evidence against Mrs. Mohr.

How to Cure Rheumatism

Here is a prescription for rheumatism that is highly spoken of both over the U. S. for many years and said to be the surest remedy to drive the acid in the blood and gives results after dose. "One ounce Toriaxin compound and one ounce syrup of Sarsaparilla. Put these two ingredients in half pint of whiskey. Use a tablespoonful before each meal and at bed time." Get ingredients at any drug store. Genuine Toriaxin comes in one ounce sealed yellow packages.

Surest for Coughs and Colds

Don't experiment on a bad cough or cold. It's risky. The following home formula easily mixed at home makes one of the best, and quickest cough remedies obtainable, often curing the worst cough in 24 hours. The recipe is as old as the Bible, but here is how: Put 2½ ounces of Globe Pine Compound, (Concentrated Pine) and two ounces of Glycerine in a pint bottle, then fill it up with plain whiskey. Use a teaspoonful frequently as required. Smaller doses for children. Be sure to get the genuine Globe Pine Compound (Concentrated Pine). It comes in only half ounce bottles, each enclosed in a screw-cap.

Frost Bites, Corns and Sore Feet

Don't endure foot agony. Here is a remedy for quick relief. It works through the pores, removing the cause. The ingredients are Calocide compound in warm foot bath. Gives instant relief for aching and sweaty feet; corns and callouses can be peeled right off. Special effective for bunions, chilblains, and frost bites. Genuine Calocide in twenty-five cent packages at any drug store.

BACKACHE WARNS YOU TO WATCH YOUR KIDNEYS

Do you feel tired and "worn-out"? Are you nervous and irritable? Don't sleep well at night? Have "dragged-out," unrested feeling when you get up in the morning? Dizzy spells? Bilious? Sad taste in the mouth, backache, pain or soreness in the loins and abdomen? Severe distress when urinating, bloody, cloudy urine or sediment? All these mean disease, gravel, or stone in the bladder, or that the poisonous microbes which are always in your system have attacked your kidneys.

You should use GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules immediately. The oil soaks gently into the walls and lining of the kidneys and the little poisonous animal germs which are causing the inflammation are immediately attacked and destroyed. Then your system without any interference or pain.

Do not delay a minute. Get the genuine Gold Medal Haarlem Oil Capsules from your druggist, and use them according to the directions. Don't suffer another day with backache, kidney or bladder trouble. Don't neglect. Don't risk dropsy or Bright's disease. Don't wait until it is too late. Get Gold Medal Haarlem Oil Capsules at once. Remember the genuine are always in sealed packages, three sizes, and that the name Gold Medal is on every package and on every capsule. Refuse any substitute.

After you have cured yourself continue to take one or two Capsules each day so as to keep in fine-tune condition and guard against the return of future attacks. Kidney sufferers of long standing should not delay in getting the original imported Gold Medal Haarlem Oil Capsules, and must be sure of getting the genuine.

tirely in black, wearing a long black coat over a black dress, with a large-brimmed black hat, trimmed on the under side with white lace. A black veil party concealed her features.

Frequent visits of Dr. Mohr and Miss Burger to various hotels in Fall River, Boston and Scituate, R. I., were brought out on cross-examination of the young woman by Attorney Cushing, of counsel for Mrs. Mohr.

Attorney Cushing also attempted to show that Miss Burger and Miss Florence Ormsby, the doctor's former secretary, had been bitter enemies prior to the murder, and bosom friends since.

This line of questioning was objected to many times by the prosecution, but only once did the court rule in their favor.

The testimony of Mr. Chaffee, who was the first witness today, was frequently interrupted by clashes between counsel and by interjections on the part of Judge Charles F. Stearns. Proceedings were delayed somewhat after court was called by the absence of Mrs. Elizabeth F. Mohr, who is charged with being an accessory to the murder of her husband.

A few minutes later she hurried into the court room, and all eyes were fixed on her, the central figure in one of the most remarkable murder trials in the history of the State. Mrs. Mohr was accompanied by Mrs. Ellen Hogan Augustus P. Mohr, sister and brother of her dead husband. Her face was flushed from hurrying and her brilliant black eyes snapped as she almost ran into the room.

Miss Cecelia Cross, who followed Mrs. Chaffee on the witness stand, was the first woman witness to testify in the trial. Miss Cross, who is a trained nurse, was in the Chaffee car when the shooting was discovered, and made the important admission that it was light enough on that part of the road to see Estelle and Miss Burger without the aid of the automobile lights.

The usual crowd which gathered outside of the courthouse today was given something of interest to discuss in the so-called "murder car." This was the machine in which Dr. Mohr and Miss Burger were riding at the time the shooting took place. It was placed in an open-way back of the courthouse, and for hours a throng surrounded it, gazing at the bullet-holes on the rear cushion and on the mudguard. There was also a crowd in the corridor of the back cushion of the front seat.

Mrs. Edna M. Campbell of Providence, in whose automobile Miss Burger was taken to the hospital, followed Miss Cross on the stand. She added but little to the testimony of Chaffee and Miss Cross.

When Mr. Chaffee, the first witness, took the stand, Judge Stearns called attention to the fact that in Rhode Island it is compulsory for witnesses to stand when testifying. He stated, however, that he would allow Attorney Mohr to sit down should she be a witness for defend, in view of the fact that her examination would be long drawn out.

Mr. Chaffee's testimony dealt with the discovery of the "murder car," and its occupants, and the trip to the Rhode Island hospital.

TAKING OUTSIDE COURT.

Seventy-five witnesses had been summoned by the State. With the preliminaries all out of the way, the little courtroom, which looks more like a church, was thrown open today to spectators. Less than 200 could find seats, but long before the doors were opened a thousand people, mostly women, thronged the streets on all sides of the building.

Four officers guarded the entrance to the courthouse on Benefit street. Two officers were stationed at the College Hill entrance.

William H. Lewis, counsel for Victor Brown, who with Henry Spellman is alleged to have been hired by Mrs. Mohr to do the shooting, addressed the court at the opening.

"On behalf of Mr. Brown," he said, "I will ask the State to furnish me a list of witnesses to appear here."

"It is not the practice in this State to do that," said Judge Stearns.

Mr. Chaffee was the first witness called by Assistant Attorney-General Phillips. He was questioned as follows:

Q.—On the night of August 31, 1915, you were out and about Attleboro, I will say, on the Newport road?

A.—Yes. I was on the north side of the canal road.

SAW DEATH CAR.

Q.—Did you notice anything there?

A.—I noticed a machine and it attracted my attention.

Q.—Where were you at the time?

A.—I was in a machine.

Q.—What place was the machine you noticed? A.—It was on the right hand side.

Q.—What time of the night did you say it was? A.—I did not look at my watch. I fixed the time by the fact that I left the house at 8.45 p. m. to go after my machine, and I got it in a couple of minutes and was then able to get under way. I should say that was five minutes later.

Attorney Lewis here objected to the answer.

Attorney Phillips then asked Chaffee how he happened to stop at the scene of the crime. He replied:

"As I was driving down the Washington road on the night of August 31, I saw this automobile stationary on the extreme right hand side of the roadway and a colored man stepped out and said: 'Stop, there has been a hold-up, and there has been some shooting.'"

Q.—Who was this colored man? A.—I afterwards found out that he was George W. Healin, chauffeur for Dr. Franklin Mohr.

Q.—What did you do then? A.—I had stopped my machine within a length of the murder car, and I got out and looked around. I saw Dr. Mohr sitting in the rear seat of the car, his face and clothes covered with blood, and I saw a girl sitting on the grass at the opposite side of the road and she, too, was covered with blood.

Q.—Were you alone when you saw all this? A.—No. I was driving with my wife, a Miss Cecilia Cross, who is a nurse, and a Mr. and Mrs. Harkness.

Q.—Did you hear anything after you stopped your car? A.—No. I stood still and listened for a few seconds, but could not hear a thing.

Q.—Where were you driving from and where were you going? A.—

Photograph of the jury in the Mohr case taken as they were examining the slain doctor's large touring car on the Washington road, Nayatt, R. I. The car was stopped in the exact spot where it was halted on the night of the murder. Bloodstains on the rear seat, on the hood and on the mudguard of the automobile were carefully looked over by each member of the panel.

Look and Feel Clean, Sweet and Fresh Every Day

Drink a glass of real hot water before breakfast to wash out poisons.

Life is not merely to live, but to live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and yet how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, spitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble, rheumatism, others who have sallow skins, blood diseases and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store, which will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of internal sanitation.—Advertisement.

HAIR COMING OUT?

Dandruff causes a feverish irritation of the scalp, the hair roots shrink, loosen and then the hair comes out fast. To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particle of dandruff, get a 25-cent bottle of Danderine at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it into the scalp. After a few applications the hair stops coming out and you can't find any dandruff.—Advertisement.

FOOD SOURING IN STOMACH CAUSES GAS, INDIGESTION

"Pape's Diapepsin" neutralizes acids in stomach and starts digestion.

Five minutes! No sourness, gas, heartburn, acidity or dyspepsia.

If your meal you ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch, eruct or regurgitate sour, undigested food, or have a sick headache, dizziness, nausea, bad taste in mouth, coated tongue, indigestion, you can surely get relief in five minutes.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula, plainly printed on these fifty-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin; then you will understand why druggist everywhere recommend it to their sick and why it relieves sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. "Pape's Diapepsin" is harmless. Tastes like candy. Though each dose will digest and prepare for assimilation and prevent the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you feel as you would after a healthy appetite; but what will please you most is that you never feel sour stomach and indigestion in five minutes. Pape's Diapepsin is good to insure to laxative or liver pills for immediate or constipation. This city will have many "Pape's Diapepsin" cranks, as some people will tell them, but you will be enthusiastic about the splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever take it for indigestion, gases, heartburn, sourness, dyspepsia, or any stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and rid yourself of stomach misery and indigestion in five minutes. For sale by Piker-Jarmes and all reliable druggists.—Advertisement.

Women Describe Tragedy Scene

Finding of Dr. Mohr and Miss Burger Wounded Pictured by Witnesses; Death Car Brought to Court House; Women Throng About Building Eager to See Widow Accused in Slaying Plot was driving from my house, which is one-quarter of a mile west of the Rhode Island Country Club, and was headed for Providence.

Q—In taking that trip you have to take the Washington road, do you not? A.—Yes.

HEARD NO SHOTS.

Q.—Before you reached the scene of the shooting, did you hear any shots? A.—I did not, no.

Q—Did you talk to Healis at all? A.—I did.

Q.—What did he say?

John R. Edwards, attorney for Henry Spellman, objected to this question, and Judge Stearns said he would permit it provided it would throw any light upon the exact time at which the murder occurred.

Assistant Attorney-General Phillips stated that it would not, but that he had witnessed who could tell the exact time. Consequently the question as to the conversation between Chaffee and Healis was not answered.

Attorney Phillips resumed:

Q.—Did you go near Dr. Mohr or look at him? A.—I did. I went close up to him and saw that he was badly wounded. I then looked at the girl, who was still sitting on the grass by the roadside, and saw that she was also badly wounded. I saw that something would have to be done and told those around me to hurry up and get the two persons to the hospital.

Q.—Who drove Dr. Mohr's car to Providence? A.—I started to drive my own car with Miss Burger in it, and seeing that there was no one to drive the doctor's car I told Healis that he would have to do it. He seemed all shot to pieces and was wringing his hands, so I slapped him on the back and told him to brace up. I tried to start the doctor's car, but

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes —Most Women Can have

Says Dr. Edwards, a well-known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. you will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter that once a system collects.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women as well as men, take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets now and then just to keep in the pink of condition.

START FOR HOSPITAL.

Q.—Was the doctor in the car all the time these events were transpiring? A.—Yes, he was sitting on the right hand side of the back seat, but he had fallen over to the left side and his head was resting on the folded top of the car.

Q.—Was there a dog there? A.—Yes, and it is my impression that he was on the seat with the doctor all of the time that I was there.

Q.—How long did all this take before you got started for the Rhode Island Hospital? A.—That would be a mere guess, but I do not think that two or three minutes would be very far off.

Following this, the State prosecutor got Mr. Chaffee to describe the roadway at that particular spot, to tell what a long, dark stretch it was, and of the numerous bends and turns.

Chaffee also told that the car was pointing towards the country club, the direction being towards Bristol, and said that he did not see anyone on the roadway between the country club and the scene of the crime.

The witness then told in great detail of the trip from Nayatt to the Rhode Island Hospital, saying that the doctor was taken up to his own car, driven by Healis, and that Miss Cecilia Cronin, the nurse, accompanied them. Miss Burger, he said, was taken up in a car owned by a Mr. and Mrs. Campbell.

Chaffee was cross-examined by Attorney Edwards, counsel for Spellman, and then by Attorney Lewis, counsel for Brown.

Q.—You are familiar with the lay of the land where you found the auto? A.—Yes, sir.

POINTS TO PAPER.

Attorney Lewis walked toward the witness stand and put a piece of paper on the rail in front of the witness.

"I want you to point out the West Barrington station on the oval which I have drawn on this paper," said Lewis. "I want you to point to Echo Lake—I mean the lake drive at the south end. I am asking you to assume that the places marked here include the territory to which you referred in your testimony."

Q.—Now, then, how was Nyatt and Washington road—I mean how did they run with reference to the position of Echo Lake? I ask you to outline those places by marking them on this paper.

Chaffee touched the paper, without answering.

Q.—Now is this Washington or Nayatt road that you have outlined? A.—I never saw a sign to know what the name of the road is.

Attorney Lewis pointed to the paper.

Q.—Well, is that the side you saw the machine drawn up at?

"May I make a suggestion?" interrupted Judge Stearns. "It seems I don't know the purpose for which this paper is being used. It has not been introduced as evidence. I think a drawn scale would be better."

Attorney Lewis—Well, Your Honor, I've asked the Attorney-General several times for a rough draft, showing the territory to which I refer here, and each time I have been refused. If Your Honor pleases, I must take this way of referring to the territory. That is all I am doing, Your Honor. I'm trying to get a little assistance by means of this little paper.

Judge Stearns: "Do you propose to offer that piece of paper as evidence?"

Attorney Lewis: "Yes, Your Honor, I do."

RULING BY THE JUDGE.

Judge Stearns—I object.

Attorney Lewis—Do I understand your objection is to allowing a witness to draw a sketch?

Judge Stearns—My ruling is that a sketch of the territory is being made by a man who is not a draughtsman.

Here Attorney-General Rice suggested that Attorney Lewis "ask the witness an intelligent question."

Attorney Lewis—Perhaps I cannot ask him that.

Then Lewis addressed the witness, holding the piece of paper in his hand.

Q.—I show you a piece of paper with an oval drawing. Now, then, suppose that oval drawing represents Echo Lake. Now, then, we'll take the railings of the enclosure here as represented by the two lines drawn near the oval. These two railings and these two lines to which I refer are what I am asking you about. They represent the roadways. Those two lines there on the paper represent where you saw the machine drawn up. Where is your house? Where do you live with reference to that machine's position in the roadway?

Attorney-General Rice objected to the question, and Judge Stearns sustained the objection.

"Your honor, er——" began Attorney Lewis.

"There is no reason for exhibiting the paper," cut in Judge Stearns.

"There is, your honor," said Lewis.

"There is better evidence than that to show the locality to which you refer," said Judge Stearns. "If you want it and you cannot pay for it, the State will have a chart of the territory made for you."

"May I examine the witness when that chart is made, your honor?" asked Lewis.

ORDERED TO PROCEED.

"No, you proceed now with the examination," ruled the Judge.

Attorney Lewis continued his examination of Chaffee.

Q.—Suppose this railing here and the railing at the end of where you stand is Lake Shore Drive—will you show where your house is located with reference to the position of these railings—I mean the direction of your house from the drive? A.—The direction is southwest.

Q.—On the right of the road? A.—Yes.

Q.—Looking south? A.—Yes, looking south.

Q.—How did you get out onto Washington or Nayatt road from your house in the machine—which road did you take?

"We'll call the place Washington road," interjected Assistant Attorney-General Phillips.

Chaffee answered: "I got to Washington road."

Q.—What is the distance from your house to Washington road? A.—I should think it was about an eighth of a mile.

Q.—Now, you are familiar with Washington road. I ask you, is it a highway of travel? A.—Yes.

ON MAIN HIGHWAY.

Q.—Between where? A.—It is the main highway between Nayatt and Brownville.

Q.—Is it frequented by automobiles in the Summer time? A.—It is.

Q.—Would it be a traveled road," said Attorney Phillips.

Q.—Is it a much travelled road? A.—It is

Q.—In the Summer time? A.—Yes.

Q.—This is the Summer time you are talking about? A.—Yes, sir.

Chaffee was then questioned at great length concerning the various automobiles he saw on the night of August 31. He testified there were four machines on the scene after the shooting.

Q.—How many machines did you say came up? A.—Four.

Q.—Do you know whose they were? A.—Yes; my own, another in which were Mr. and Mrs. Chaffee, another in which were Mr. and Mrs. Campbell, and another car some distance behind to the south.

Q.—That makes four machines? A.—Yes.

Q.—How soon after you stopped your machine did you see the fourth machine? A.—After I got into my machine to go away.

Q.—Did the other car stop? A.—It did.

Q.—Was there another machine you didn't identify? A.—I said there might possibly be another.

Q.—I wasn't quite sure that you said this machine was drawn up to the right side of the road. Was it? A.—Yes.

Q.—Was the machine close to the embankment? A.—It was close to the embankment.

Q.—And you saw no one there except Chauffeur Healis? A.—Yes.

Attorney John J. Fitzgerald, for Mrs. Mohr, then questioned the witness concerned the arrival of the machines, as to which came first and last. Chaffee went into details concerning the arrival of the automobiles.

QUESTIONED AGAIN.

Q.—Did you notice the order in which they arrived? A.—I noticed the order in which they were lined up in the street.

Attorney-General Rice, in redirect examination, then interrupted the witness about the scene of the shooting. Chaffee said the road was the main highway from Providence to the Bristol ferry. He thought, though, the most direct line was to the State line and through Fall River, if a person was going to Newport.

THREE MOTIVES

Outlined by State

IN MOHR MURDER

Providence, Jan. 12.—Deputy Attorney-General Phillips, in opening the prosecution of Mrs. Elizabeth Ritir Mohr for the murder of her husband, set up these three motives:

JEALOUSY—That Dr Mohr, living in luxury, showered wealth, comforts and attentions on the "other woman," his secretary, Miss Emily Burger.

REVENGE—That Mrs Mohr, watching from behind the blinds of her little cottage nearby, could see Miss Burger acting as mistress of the doctor's mansion.

CUPIDITY—That Mrs. Mohr feared that she and her children would be cheated of their share of the doctor's wealth, and that it would be given to Miss Burger.

WHAT DYSPEPTICS SHOULD EAT

Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble, about nine times out of ten, are due to hyperacidity; therefore stomach sufferers should, whenever possible, avoid eating food that is acid in its nature, or which by chemical action in the stomach develops acidity. Unfortunately, such a pleasant to the taste are well as those building properties. This is the reason why dyspeptics and stomach sufferers are denied so many delicacies and healthful in that vital energy which can only come from a well fed body. For the benefit to those sufferers who have been obliged to exclude from their diet all starchy, sweet or fatty food, and are trying to keep up a reasonable existence on gluten products, it is suggested that you try a meal of any food or foods which you like, in moderate amount, taking immediately afterwards a teaspoonful of Bisurated Magnesia in a little hot or cold water. This will neutralize any excess acid which may be present, or which may be formed, and instead of the usual feeling of uneasiness and fullness you probably will find that your food agrees with you perfectly. There is a booklet issued by the Bisurated Magnesia as a food, or medicine and antacid. It has many uses, acting on the stomach; but by neutralizing the excess acidity of the food contents, and thus removing the source of the irritation which influences the acid of the irritated stomach with drugs instead of getting rid of the real cause of the trouble. Get a little Bisurated Magnesia from your druggist, eat what you want at your next meal, take some of the Bisurated Magnesia, as directed above, and see if this isn't the best advice you ever had on the subject of eating.

close and a very good friend of mine. He came to my house every day.

At this words Mrs. Mohr blushed. She had her eyes fixed on Miss Burger throughout the entire testimony, but the latter never glanced in Mrs. Mohr's direction.

RECOUNTS TRIP.

Miss Burger spoke very distinctly when she stated that the doctor had called on her every day, and everyone in the courtroom was conscious of the battle that was being fought by the two women.

Q.—On the day or night in question, did anything of any moment happen? A.—No, nothing if you mean on the day of the murder.

Q.—What did happen. A.—We left from the district office at Stewart and Pine streets at 3:20 p. m. and drove very slowly through the city. When we struck the outskirts of Providence, Healis sped his car up to high speed, which we struck West Barrington he again went very slowly.

Q.—Did he say anything about the motor being out of order? A.—He made some remark, but I cannot remember whether he said it was the engine or the gas.

Q.—As you started down this lonely stretch, coming to the scene of the crime, did he switch off and on his headlights? A.—No, he did not turn off his headlights until after he stopped the car.

Q.—Were you in total darkness then? A.—No, because when he turned off the headlights, he turned on the sidelights.

Q.—Did you remember Miss Cross or Mrs. Campbell? Do you also remember talking to them? A.—Yes, I remember them and I remember talking with them.

Q.—Do you remember telling them not to let your brother and father know about the affair, and also to keep it out of the newspapers? A.—I cannot remember anything of the kind.

Q.—Would you deny it? A.—I don't remember, that's all I can say.

GRABBED BY HEALIS.

Q.—What do you remember? A.—I remember asking Mrs. Campbell to call up my sister, Mrs. George Rook, and my brother-in-law, George Rook.

Q.—Did Mr. and Mrs. Rook call on you at the hospital? A.—Yes, they came immediately.

Q.—What did you tell your brother-in-law? A.—I told him of the shooting and explained to him how Healis brought the car to a stop, complaining about the motor or the gas.

Q.—Did you tell them that Healis had grabbed you and used you roughly?

Once more the Assistant Attorney General put in a strong objection, but the court again overruled it.

A.—Yes, I told him that Healis had grabbed me by the left arm and had dragged me across the roadway.

Q.—Did you have any other bruises besides the bruise on your left arm? A.—Yes; my left eye was badly discolored.

Q.—How did that happen? A.—I cannot remember.

Q.—Did Healis say why he dragged you out of the car? A.—I do not believe so.

Q.—How long were you in the hospital? A.—Two weeks and one day.

Q.—Did Chief O'Neil call on you at the hospital? A.—He did.

Q.—Did he tell him exactly what you have told me? A.—Nothing like it. His questions were entirely different from yours.

Q.—Have you been talking over your testimony with your brother-in-law, George Rook, and with Miss Florence Connelly? A.—I have not.

SEES EVERY DAY.

Q.—Is it not a fact that you have seen your brother-in-law every day since the murder, and also you have seen Miss Grimsby every day since the murder? A.—It is.

Q.—Also is it not a fact that during the doctor's life you and Miss Grimsby were bitter enemies, and since the murder you have become bosom friends? A.—We were never enemies; we have always been good friends.

Q.—Is it not a fact that Miss Grimsby has told you of some of the testimony that she is going to give here as a witness? A.—

"I object to this, Your Honor," said Attorney-General Rice. "Mr. Cushing is deliberately telling the names of the witnesses that the State intends to put on. The question is not a fair one."

The court ruled in favor of the State. Mr. Cushing then took a different line.

Q.—Is it not a fact that you were on friendly with Dr. Mohr that you visited both in Providence, Newport and Fall River? A.—Yes, I have visited them and had dinner with him.

Q.—Were you not a frequent visitor at the Crown Hotel in Providence? A.—Yes, I had dinner with Dr. Mohr at the Crown Hotel two or three times every week for the past several years.

Q.—Were you ever at the Updike Hotel at East Greenwich? A.—No.

Q.—Miss Burger, is it not a fact that you went to the Updike with the doctor about one week before he was murdered and stayed there with him until 2 o'clock in the morning?

STATE OBJECTS.

Attorney-General Rice and Assistant Attorney-General Phillips both jumped to their feet and objected. Arthur Cushing, counsel for Mrs. Mohr, began to tell the court that he was laying a foundation for further cross-examination.

Mrs. Campbell Saw Several Cars

Mrs. Edna M. Campbell of Providence then took the witness stand. She told how she was driving with her husband on the night of the murder, and came upon the scene a few minutes after Mr. Chaffee and Miss Cross.

Continuing her testimony under redirect examination, Mrs. Campbell said that the road was much frequented by automobiles. She said the machines passed and repassed on that road. Mrs. Campbell testified that four cars stopped, and thought there might have been more, but didn't notice them.

Q.—You described everything you saw in and about Dr. Mohr's car when you arrived, such as persons and machines? A.—I haven't described all the persons. I don't believe I could.

Q.—Did you see Chauffeur Healis?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Where was he standing? A.—At my left.

Q.—You were coming in the opposite direction? A.—Yes.

Q.—And he was standing at your left? A.—Yes.

Under cross examination by Attorney John J. Fitzgerald, of counsel for Mrs. Mohr, witness testified there was a dog seated to the left of the centre of the front seat. Under redirect examination she was asked:

Q.—Was the doctor's head resting as that it was in the direction of the centre of the road? A.—Yes.

Questioned again by Attorney Fitzgerald, witness said his head was leaning to the left of the centre of the seat.

Cross-examined by Attorney Louis, counsel for Brown, witness said she observed things and machines in the vicinity of Dr. Mohr's car.

Q.—You said that it was a much frequented road for automobiles? A.—I believe so.

Q.—And they pass and repass? A.—Yes.

Miss Cross of Boston Testifies

Miss Cecilia Cross, a trained nurse, of Boston, was then called as a witness for the State after Attorney Louis and Attorney General Rice had conferred with Judge Stearns. Miss Cross testified that she was a professional nurse.

Assistant Attorney-General Phillips asked Miss Cross how she happened to be at the scene of the murder on the night of August 31, she testified that she, with Mr. Chaffee had been given, and told how Healis stepped out and asked them to stop.

Q.—What did you do when you stopped? A.—I rushed across the roadway to where I saw a girl sitting on the grass with blood streaming from her neck. I assisted her in every way possible, but she told me not to take care of the doctor first. "Where is he?" I asked. "He is sitting in the back of the gray automobile," she replied, "and I think he is terribly wounded."

Q.—What did you do then? A.—I ran over to Dr. Mohr's automobile and examined his wounds. After taking his pulse I found that he was in a critical condition and that he should be taken to a hospital immediately.

Miss Cross then explained about the other automobiles coming along and told how she sat alone with the doctor on the ride back to the city. Healis drove the car, she said, and told her going back that the man was Dr. Mohr and that the girl was his secretary, Miss Burger. He explained that there had been a holdup on the road.

REFUSE FACTS ON U. S. MAIL SEIZURE

Washington, Jan. 12.—The administration today denied Congress any information of the British interference with United States mail. Postmaster-General Burleson informed the Senate Committee on Postoffices and Post Roads that he must decline to answer the Hitchcock resolution asking whether Great Britain had held up mail, especially registered letters, between the United States and neutral European countries. The Postmaster-General withheld his reasons.

ARREST FOLLOWS TOLLS' ARGUMENT

A man giving his name as Benjamin Mendum of Putnam street, East Boston, was arrested in the State street station of the East Boston tunnel today in connection with his refusal to pay the toll.

According to the police, Mendum and two companions entered the station and engaged in a controversy with attendants over the much-discussed tunnel tolls. Following Mendum's refusal to pay the toll, he was arrested by a special officer of the Elevated.

GET LYNN ROBBERS AT PISTOL POINT

Three burglars were captured at the point of revolvers by two Lynn patrolmen while in a Central square office early today.

Shortly after midnight someone telephoned that thieves were in the building at No. 10 Central square. Patrolmen Cannen and Phillips were rushed to the scene by auto. They entered the building with drawn guns and surprised the robbers in the office of Dr. C. A. Vinal, a dentist.

Bill Aimed to Make Pomeroy Prison Trusty

A petition designed to relieve Jesse Pomeroy from solitary confinement and to make him a trusty with all the privileges allowed well-behaved prisoners at Charlestown State Prison was filed in the House today by Representative Roland D. Sawyer, the clergyman-legislator from Ware.

Although framed as a general act, Representative Sawyer's bill is aimed for the relief of the famous life prisoner, as it is made applicable only to prisoners under sentence of life imprisonment in solitary confinement and who have served at least forty years. Pomeroy was committed to Charlestown, September 7, 1876.

Representative Sawyer says that Pomeroy has served a longer sentence in solitary confinement than any other prisoner in the history of the civilized world.

In addition to being made a trusty, under such regulations as the prison commissioner might impose, Pomeroy would also be allowed to take auto rides on Christmas Day, Easter Sunday, the Fourth of July and Thanksgiving Day in each year. He would be attended by a guard.

RESCUE WOMAN OVERCOME BY SMOKE

One woman, overcome by smoke, was rescued and nine other persons, including two small children, were driven to the street by a fire today in a three-story frame dwelling on Central avenue, Chelsea.

Mrs. Sarah Hearon, living on the top floor, was overcome while descending the stairway, and was carried to the street by Policeman Timothy Cunningham.

The fire was discovered by Miss Loretta Robetee of No. 193 Central avenue, across the street from the burning building. She telephoned fire headquarters. The fire is said to have started in a grocery store on the ground floor. The police estimated the loss at $1,100.

Extraordinary Innovation in ORIENTAL RUGS
Get Your Rug Now
PAY NEXT FALL

For a limited time we will sell any Oriental Rug in Our Immense Stock, already marked way below its real worth, deliver the rug to you now and have your bill dated August 1st, 1916, payable next Fall, September 1st, 1916.

This extremely liberal offer is open to those of approved credit, and is unquestionably the most unusual offer ever made in retailing.

Now, Our Reason for Making This Extraordinary Offer: We have a much larger stock of Oriental Rugs than we wish to take in our semi-annual inventory. Hence this most extraordinary inducement to reduce our stock of Oriental Rugs before inventory, January 30th.

Your Reason for Buying: As Turkey is now involved in European war, this undoubtedly means a tremendous curtailment in the weaving and shipping of Oriental Rugs, which means not only a scarcity, but much higher prices for the next five or six years.

1st—You get a beautiful Oriental Rug for much less than you are likely to pay for it for several years to come.

2nd—You get it now.

3rd—You do not have to pay for it until next September.

4th—You have a selection out of the largest assortment of Oriental Rugs in New England.

DEER ISLAND CELLS MADE AN ARSENAL

delivery was related in the newspapers at the time. A few days later the AMERICAN printed an exclusive story to the effect that Maxwell had committed a desperate assault upon Joseph F. Daley, one of the guards, in revenge for Daley's clever work in ferreting out the plot.

SHAW REVELATIONS.

It was the court trial on this assault charge that brought Commissioner Shaw to the witness stand today with his amazing revelations of island conditions.

Maxwell is also charged with assaulting LeBaron, one of the prisoners. LeBaron is serving a term for larceny. The trial is before Chief Justice Aiken of the Superior Court.

The commissioner was examined by Assistant District Attorney Lavelle. He said:

"The first notice of trouble came to me on March 5, when there was a strike at the island. LeBaron and Maxwell were two of fifty to sixty who refused to work.

"Well, they were not striking for more money or better hours, but about the food, were they not?" asked Mr. Lavelle.

"I think it was," replied the commissioner, continuing his island narrative as follows:

"STRIKE" OF PRISONERS.

"About 5 o'clock in the evening I received a telephone message at my house, one or two weeks after I became commissioner. I went down to the island and to the old prison where the ringleaders were locked up. I learned of the strike from the officers and also that the officers had given the men their chances before they were locked up. Maxwell and others were defiant and abusive toward the commissioner and master, and were ordered to the 'plant.'

"The 'plant' is a dark solitary behind a steel door as well as a barred door. They are kept on bread and water for ten days. The only light is from a small opening over the door. There is a plank eight feet long, three inches from the floor, with three blankets. Each man receives a quart of water and an eight-ounce loaf of bread every twenty-four hours.

"The night solitary has an ordinary cell door, with the steel door removed. The bed and food are the same as in ordinary cells. There are twenty-four cells in the 'plant.'

"Maxwell was not in solitary the day of the strike. The strikers were given ten days each in dark solitary.

"Maxwell and LeBaron assaulted me twice, Maxwell said:

"'You won't keep me here twenty-four hours.'

"Within forty-eight hours he was observed coming through the wall. He picked cement one foot thick out of the side and I was forced to remove four cells. He was the only one who made an attempt to escape. He was then put in the 'plant.' He removed the brick from front walls at the fireplaces, twelve inches being removed between midnight and 1 a. m. He squeezed his body through. We were shorthanded for guards that night and the officer on rounds was not accompanied.

SHAW'S LIFE THREATENED.

The commissioner continued: "Le Baron threatened my life. He and Maxwell are most vicious. It took two officers to handle each of them.

"I took the Parole Board to the 'plant.' The prisoners called the board members bad names.'

Commissioner Shaw, in answer to questions, denied that he had ever used vile language to Maxwell and that he had threatened to "break" Maxwell, mentally and physically.

He also denied that prisoners were punished by handcuffing them standing up to the door of a cell. He said the only punishment inflicted on prisoners was to make them stand up under the observation of an officer and to look them in solitary.

The Great Kidney Medicine Fulfils Its Mission

I was afflicted with Bladder trouble. I suffered with great pain that the doctor had to take my urine. After the doctor had treated me for two weeks, I did not get any better. Remembering that a few doses of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root completely relieved my Mother-in-Law, after all the doctors who were called on her case had failed to do her any good, I asked my husband to get me a bottle of Swamp-Root, which he did, and I took it and threw the doctor's preparations away, because immediately after I started taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root I was greatly relieved. My husband was so pleased he said I should take one dozen bottles of Swamp-Root, but by the time I had taken seven bottles I was completely restored to health. That was six years ago and I have not taken any medicine since. My weight is 195 pounds, have three children, do my own work in a house of twelve rooms, and keep boarders. Very truly yours,

MRS. ANNIE BAUGHMAN.

657 Newell St. Barberton, Ohio.

Personally appeared before me this 19th day of December, 1914, Mrs. Annie Baughman, who subscribed the above statement and made oath that the same is true in substance and in fact.

W. A. MORTON, Notary Public.

Athens, Jan. 12.—Russian warships again bombarded Varna, the chief Bulgarian port city on the Black Sea, fifty shells taking effect, according to information received here today.

SEMAPHORE to be erected at Tremont and Winter streets to regulate traffic at that point.

Work was started today by the Public Works Department on the installation of a mechanical semaphore station for the regulation of traffic at the business center of Winter and Winter streets. This station, like that to be installed at the junction of Huntington and Massachusetts avenues, is to serve as an experiment. The first two work satisfactorily the Street Commissioners plan to erect others at busy corners.

Laborers began today to build an island in the centre of Tremont street at the head of Winter street. This island is to be four feet long and two feet wide. In the centre a metal pole eleven feet high is to be erected. A policeman will be stationed on the island and will regulate the "go" and "stop" signals by a lever. The signals will show red lights at night and the discs by day are to be deep green.

EAT LESS MEAT AND TAKE SALTS IF KIDNEYS HURT

Says a teaspoonful of Salts flushes Kidneys, stopping Backache.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, nasty stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritations.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone, makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.—Advertisement.

EXHIBIT WORK OF CLERICAL SCHOOL

The Boston Clerical School, a new part of the public school system designed to teach girls real business methods—such as the tired business man is constantly appealing for—is going to have a special demonstration session Friday evening for the benefit of parents and friends of pupils, or of anyone else interested.

The demonstration session is explained in the following letter received by the AMERICAN:

In September, 1914 the Boston Clerical School was established by authority of the school Committee of the City of Boston.

It is an entirely new type of public school, offering a vocational training for girls by a different method than has been attempted before in a public school.

Courses are offered which prepare them for positions as secretaries, stenographers, bookkeepers and general office assistants. Progress is individual, depending upon one's own effort and ability, and pupils complete courses when they meet required standards of accomplishment. New pupils are admitted at any time.

For the benefit of parents and friends and for the purpose of acquainting the public with the school, a regular session will be conducted on Friday evening, from 7:30 to 9:30 o'clock.

BOTTLING WORKS BURNED IN WARE

Ware, Jan. 12.—An alarm from Box 16 called the entire Fire Department to the business section of the town for a fire in the John Nelligan bottling works on Rock street, in the Hampshire House Block.

The building is owned by William Roban. The damage is estimated by firemen at $600. The blaze is believed to have started from an overheated stove.

SAYS HE GOT $7 IN CHELSEA ELECTION

The trial of Representative Joseph M. Levenson of Chelsea, under the corrupt practices act, was opened today in the Superior Court before Judges McLaughlin, Fox and Jenney. The early hours of the trial were marked by numerous clashes between David Stoneman, who represented Levenson, and Hugh A. McCarney, who represented Lawrence P. Quigley, and the four other persons from Levenson's district who charge that he expended more than $100 in securing his election.

Most of Chelsea's politicians were in court.

William H. Wait of Chelsea, the first witness for Quigley, testified that he met Levenson in October. He had heard Levenson was giving money to persons in his district. He was told that Harry Cohen "would fix him up."

The witness testified that next morning Cohen told him he would put him "on the list," to be paid $5 if Levenson won.

"I intended to vote for Quigley, but if there was any loose money going around, I intended to get my share of it," said the witness.

Frederick Cassidy, of No. 178 Pearl street, Chelsea, testified that Levenson gave him $2 for expense money as a campaign worker.

When it was definitely known that Levenson had been elected, the witness said he was paid $5 through Harry Bloom, as the result of a conversation with whom he had first gone to Levenson.

SQUANTUM ASKS FOR NEW SEA WALL

A petition for a seawall and boulevard from Atlantic Boulevard to Marine Park, South Boston, by way of Squantum and Thompson's Island, will be presented to the present Legislature. Years ago this project was started from the South Boston end, but after the building of a pier that extends part way to Thompson's Island work was suspended.

Fight Stubborn Factory Fire on Beverly Street

Fire of unknown origin, which caused damage estimated by District Chief Hines at $2,000, threatened several wood working concerns on Beverly street early today.

Prompt work by the firemen prevented the spread of the blaze and confined it to two floors in the building occupied by Scott & Tingloff, wood workers and wagon manufacturers, as No. 76 Beverly street.

The fire was discovered shortly before 3:30 a. m. by John P. Devine, night watchman in the building of the Moxie Company, which adjoins Scott & Tingloff's plant. He heard a sound in the stairway between the two buildings and found it to be caused by the falling of burning embers. He sounded an alarm from Box 1311.

The fire, according to firemen, started on the fourth floor of the building, which is of five stories, brick construction, and spread up to the fifth floor, where it was held in check.

The other occupant of the building, the Boston Wood Working Company, which occupies the first and second floors, suffered a water damage.

TAFT CALLS ON M'CALL AT THE STATE HOUSE

Ex-President Taft called on Governor McCall at the State House today.

Mr. Taft entered the State House unattended and made his way directly to the Governor's suite.

When ushered into Governor McCall's office, he held out his hand and said, "Well, well, Sam, how are you?"

"Fine, Mr. President," said the Governor, "and I'm glad to see you."

I thought I'd drop in to see how you look as Governor, and you certainly fit the frame," said the former President.

They indulged in friendly joking.

"The next time I go down to Washington I suppose I'll have to kow-tow before a new justice of the Supreme Court," said the Governor.

"You won't have to kow-tow to me, Sam," said the ex-President.

When Mr. Taft left the executive chamber he said to the newspapermen, "I just called to see how my old friend looks as Governor. The frame fits."

City Councillor "Jerry" Watson, who was in the lounging room, jumped up and rushed over to Mr. Taft with his hand extended.

"I want to shake hands with the only living ex-President or would-be-President I haven't met," said "Jerry."

"Would-be President?" asked Mr. Taft with an expansive smile.

"I was thinking of Bryan," said "Jerry."

When the former President was last seen going down the State House steps, "Jerry" was still talking to him and Mr. Taft was laughing heartily.

Mr. Taft also met Lieutenant-Governor Coolidge and Sergeant-at-Arms Pedrick at the State House. He inquired for his old friend, Samuel J. Elder.

While in the Governor's room Mr. Taft, still breathing hard from the exertion, remarked that the State House were "too perpendicular."

Mr. Taft will speak tonight with Governor McCall at the Hampton Institute meeting in Symphony Hall.

FORD IN TRADE BATTLE WITH DURANT

By International News Service.

Detroit, Jan. 12.—Henry Ford and Walter Durant are the prinipals in a gigantic struggle in which millions of dollars will be expended in commpetition, according to men close to both magnates.

The two men hold exactly opposite views on international affairs. Ford opposes war and all plans for war, while the du Pont Powder Company interests are said to be behind Durant in the wide-reaching plan to monopolize the trade in munition supplies.

It is asserted that Durant is about to place upon the market a car that will compete with the Ford. It is to be produced by the General Motors organization.

The Most Wonderful Endorsement Ever Given Any Product

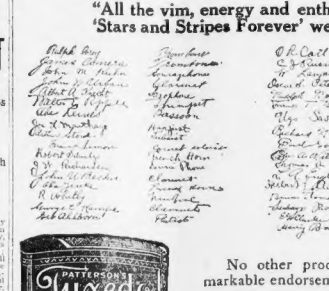
John Philip Sousa and his famous Band have circled the globe on numerous tours and inspired millions of people in many lands with their soul-stirring, inimitable music.

Mr. Sousa has been a smoker of Tuxedo Tobacco for years. Recently, at the Panama-Pacific Exposition, a newspaper representative made the discovery that every member of Sousa's Band is also a Tuxedo smoker!

Whereupon, the following endorsement of Tuxedo was gladly given and signed by Mr. Sousa and the sixty-six members of his Band. Read it—as sure-fire and convincing as a Sousa March:

"All the vim, energy and enthusiasm we put into the playing of the 'Stars and Stripes Forever' we find in the steady use of TUXEDO." John Philip Sousa

JOHN PHILIP SOUSA
The March King



No other product has ever received such a remarkable endorsement as this.

The incomparable mildness of Tuxedo appeals to men with nerves—the fact that Tuxedo does not affect their throats or nerves. And the reason is the "Tuxedo Process", that makes Tuxedo different from all other tobaccos—positively non-biting, delightfully soothing, restful and refreshing.

Tuxedo will appeal to you for the same reasons. March at a Sousa quick-step to the nearest tobacco dealer and get a tin of Tuxedo today. Smoke pipeful after pipeful all day long, every day, for a week. Then you'll know you've found the one cheer-up-and-speed-up-without-a-let-up smoke for happy, hustling Americans—TUXEDO.

You can buy Tuxedo everywhere. Convenient, glassine wrapped, moisture-proof pouch, 5c. Famous Green Tin with gold lettering, curved to fit pocket, 10c. In Tin Humidors 40c and 80c. In Glass Humidors 50c and 90c.

SEEK FISHING SCHOONERS FOR WAR TRADE

The war is about to take a number of schooners out of the Boston and New England fish trade, it became known today.

Big lumber interests are negotiating for the use of schooners to take lumber to the allies, and on the water front it was said the financial inducements involved are such as to make the venture a profitable one for owners.

The news attracted keen interest in shipping circles today, and one authority said that the diverting of the fishing craft into the war trade might have an effect on the fishing industry.

"The war has taken everything else, it seems, and after the fishing boats go, there'll be nothing left except the pleasure yachts," said this shipping man.

Locked Him in Cellar on Their Wedding Night

Providence, Jan. 12.—Because his bride locked him into the cellar on their wedding night, and made him stay there alone till morning, Charles Kennedy asked Judge Barrows for a divorce.

Mrs. Kennedy admitted that she had locked him into the cellar, but declared that he had been drinking and was so sick that she would not occupy the same room with him.

In her cross-petition she charged that he had failed to provide for her and that he regularly consumed four quarts of whiskey every week.

Mrs. Kennedy was a widow with six children when she was married to Kennedy.

POSTMASTERS IN BAY STATE NAMED

NEW EXPLOSION AT DU PONT PLANT

By International News Service.

Wilmington, Del., Jan. 12.—The third explosion in the plant of the du Pont Powder Company within forty-eight hours occurred early today. The blast took place in prismatic mill No. 27 of the Hagley Yards plant. One man was injured, but, according to officials, his wounds are not serious.

The blast resembled the thunder of a battery of heavy artillery and shook the ground for many miles around. People living near the works were thrown from their beds and hundreds of windows were broken.

The series of explosions are causing apprehension that plotters are at work at the powder factory.

Members of the Delaware militia who were employed at the Hopewell plant are doing duty now as watchers at the du Pont factories.

WOMAN CONTESTS WILL AT MERIDEN

Meriden, Ct., Jan. 12.—A contest over the $25,000 estate of Royal S. Norton, retired business man, began in the Probate Court today with Mrs. Alice Godcher, of this city, claiming there is a later will than the one offered in court and that by it she is made a beneficiary for caring for Norton.

MRS. PINKHAM IDENTIFIES TELEGRAMS

was dated at New York on November 11, 1903. It read:

"Sorry I could not keep the engagement."

Mrs. Pinkham was asked by her counsel, Judge McManus:

"Who was this telegram from?"

"Mr. Bowler," replied Mrs. Pinkham.

"How do you know?"

"Because he said it was."

"Where did he tell you that?"

"At Clark's Hotel."

A second telegram was dated from the Union station at Albany on November 6, 1903. It was addressed to "E. A. P." (Mrs. Pinkham's initials) at No. 37 St. Botolph street. Mrs. Pinkham was living at that address then. The message was:

"Meet me Sunday evening at Hotel.—Leave Albany on 55 Sunday."

Mrs. Pinkham identified this telegram as she had the first one in answer to her lawyer's questions.

TYPEWRITTEN POSTCARD.

A third telegram was dated from the Hartford, Ct., railroad station on January 16, 1906. It read:

"Can you meet me in New York for two days.

(Signed) "GEORGE A. HILL."

Mr. McManus asked: "Was that from Mr. Bowler?"

Mrs. Pinkham replied:

"Yes. I had a talk with him later and asked him about this Hill. He told me the telegram was from him."

The postcard, which was typewritten, was dated from Worcester on December 26, 1906. It was not read. Mrs. Pinkham said this came from Bowler. Asked how she knew, she said they talked about it afterwards.

Mrs. Pinkham is about fifty years old. She testifies in a low tone. The defendant is represented by former Attorney-General Herbert Parker and other counsel.

On the opening day Mrs. Pinkham testified that she first met Bowler in 1899. She was walking on a Boston street, she said, and he followed her. As she was about to board a car at the corner of Columbus avenue and Dartmouth street she slipped and he aided her. She thanked him, she said, and he introduced himself as H. E. Adair.

GAVE PERMISSION TO WRITE.

He asked permission to write, Mrs. Pinkham continued. She gave it and he wrote to her. She learned later that his name was Bowler, she said, when he showed her his watch with his name in it. A friendship continued up to the time they had a difference and she went to his lawyer's office with him. Here she signed some papers, she said, gave him some letters he had written and received a sum of money.

After this meeting he said to her as they parted, she testified: "I will see you in the insane asylum." He said something further, she said, which she now thought was "or in jail."

In the Fall of 1905, she said, she met him at Clark's Hotel in a small dining room. "From the time you left him in Pemberton square up to the time you met him in Clark's Hotel had he used the language described by you in your declaration?" she was asked by Attorney McManus, her counsel.

"He had not," she replied.

After the Clark's Hotel meeting she heard from him in the early Winter. At this time she was living with her daughter on St. Botolph street. Later she moved to Gainsboro street. While living there, in the year 1902 and 1904, and possibly into 1905, she received telephone calls from Bowler, She described the conversation that he had with her as "saucy." He called up about once in four weeks, she said, and used the language which she has described in her suit.

At his request she said she met Bowler mostly at Clark's. On one of these occasions she had a talk with him about his telephone calls. "He said he wouldn't telephone again as he had before."

Increased Weight 22 Pounds Says Sergeant Campbell

Remarkable Experience of Kentucky Guardsman, Puts On Flesh At Rapid Rate.

"I got the trial package of Sargol and was very much pleased with it," states Quarter Master Sergeant Campbell of the 1st Kentucky Infantry, who was the photo above. He reports that by the time he was on the fourth package his weight had increased 22 lbs. and that he felt like another fellow.

When I began to take Sargol," continued Sergt. Campbell, "I only weighed one hundred forty-seven pounds. Now my weight has increased to 169 lbs. Everybody says that I am getting so fat."

"I never felt better in my life since I have been taking Sargol. The first two weeks I gained 10 lbs. and am gaining every day. Sargol makes me eat and sleep and I don't get up with a tired feeling any more," writes J. C. Weaver, and N. B. Henderson adds, "when I started Sargol I weighed 145 lbs. now I weigh 160 lbs. Everybody is telling me how fat you have got in the last month."

Would you, too, like to quickly put on flesh in the form of good, solid "stay-there" flesh, fat and muscular tissue between your skin and bones?

Don't say it can't be done. Try it. Let us send you free a trial package of Sargol and prove what it can do for you.

More than half a million thin men and women have gladly taken this test, and the Sargol does succeed, does make thin folks fat—or the trial package, is refunded. A MOTORMAN HAD STOMACH TROUBLE

Michael Cowhey of 33 Vermont St. Claims He Was Cured by Plant Juice.

If you have been fighting stomach trouble with the symptoms of dyspepsia, indigestion, headache, backache, nervousness, sleeplessness, constipation, liver or kidney trouble, or that terrible scourge, rheumatism, you should try the new preparation, Plant Juice, and you are then on the road to health. The action of this remedy is just as direct, just as positive and just as sure in its influence on the human system as that the morning follows the night. That this is proven conclusively it is only necessary to listen to the statements of the steady stream of grateful people who daily call at the headquarters of the Plant Juice man at the Liggett Drug Company's store, corner of Washington and Avon Streets.

Selected from a mass of written testimonials is that of Mr. Michael Cowhey, who lives at No. 33 Vermont Street, and is a well known motorman in the employ of the Boston Street Railway Company, which states:

"I have had stomach trouble, indigestion and dyspepsia for three years, and my stomach was in such a weak condition that I could scarcely keep any solid food in it. I had gas and a heavy, bloated condition in the pit of my stomach; had no appetite and could only eat one meal a day, and three months had to live on a diet. I suffered such agony that I was afraid to eat. I had headaches, dizzy spells, poor circulation, cold hands and was in a terribly run-down condition and getting worse every day. I had doctored and taken all kinds of medicines, but got no relief. It was only when I started to take Plant Juice that I got any relief and now since I have taken four bottles I feel like a new man; have no more trouble with my stomach, can eat anything I want without distress, sleep well, my liver is all right and I am now a well man—completely cured by Plant Juice."

The Plant Juice Man is at the Liggett Drug Co.'s store, corner of Washington and Avon Streets, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.—Advertisement.

The Trouble with Some People Willing to Lend a Hand Is That They Have Nothing in It

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTS

EXPECT GEORGE SOON

Manager Stallings to Come to Boston for a Conference with Messrs. Haughton and Wise.

By HERMAN NICKERSON.

A REPLY to the telegram sent Manager George T. Stallings by President P. D. Haughton is expected today. Manager Stallings will probably leave Haddock the latter part of the week, arriving in Boston for a conference with the new owners on Saturday, which is the day following the annual meeting of the company.

Treasurer Wise said this morning that the new officers would be chosen on Friday and that Mr. Haughton would then become active. The 1,000 shares of stock are at present controlled by a few gentlemen.

There will be no effort made to dispose of a minority of the stock. It is likely that a few gentlemen will acquire small amounts, but no general effort will be made to put the minority stock in numerous hands.

Manager Stallings' resignation as a director was in keeping with the idea of a new list of officers throughout. How the story of his resignation could have spread is one of the wonders of baseball. Anyone who knows baseball would immediately see the impossibility of such a thing ever happening. For instance, a contract as manager of a ball club, held by a man of Mr. Stallings' ability, is considered an asset of the club, and is valuable one. The fact that Mr. Stallings' contract had two years to run was one of the reasons the Boston club looked attractive to the men who now own it.

Neither Mr. Stallings nor the club could break the contract, should either have desired to do so, except by mutual consent. The history of baseball managers' contracts has been one where the manager has been settled with when the club desired to make a change. Very few, if any, managers in the history of the game have not signed.

Manager Stallings' ambition is to repeat as director of a world championship pagan. He will work as hard as he ever did for the ne Wegners and with their assistance put the team where it belongs.

Levinsky Tidy Victor Knockdown for Cowler

TOM COWLER, a native of Hensingham, Cumberland, Eng., billed as the heavyweight champion of Australia, looked like a white hope of rare promise, not a slight hope, as loom up fully 50 per cent. of the ring jumboes being dug up and drilled to go after the crown worn so well by John L. Sullivan, Jim Corbett and Bob Fitzsimmons in the good old days—not copyrighted—when the Queensberry sport was chuck full of sure-enough, hope-to-die battlers, at different intervals of his twelve-round engagement with "Battling" Levinsky, the best little Hight heavyweight of them all, at the Hippodrome last night.

Cowler, even though his "eye," Jim Corbett, was too fit to come over from New York and second him, bounced away from the post in dashing style. Tom won the honors in the first round. He was all over Levinsky and scored a clean knockdown, through getting in a solid right hook to the jaw, in the second round. And right there, when down on the canvas, was it that the wise Levinsky won the fight for himself.

Levinsky was floored clean as a whistle. No, he wasn't out, or even half out. But he had been sent down by a man who had a pull of some 35 pounds in the weights and a fon who, during the five minutes' life of the scrap, had shown himself to be the leading man in the show.

LEVINSKY SHOWS WISDOM.

A boob would have hopped back on his pins right away. But Levinsky stayed down for the full count. Doubtless he was asking himself what to do, as the supposed soft mark, a gent he had already thrashed once, was showing startling symptoms of having developed to a tremendous degree since the occasion of their last meeting, and mayhap he (Levinsky) was in for the big surprise of his existence.

Back on his pins at nine, Levinsky managed to remain out of all harm for the rest of the round. When the bell sounded the start of hostilities in the third, the Battler went in with a new plan of attack. Where he had been roughing it with Cowler, fighting from close quarters, he proceeded to box with the big fellow; peck at him from a safe distance.

The third round went to Levinsky. So did the fourth. Also the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth. No, the Battler didn't have any particular big shade in these frames, but he outscored Tom in every one of them. The ninth and tenth were even. The eleventh was Levinsky's. So was the twelfth. It was a case of class, plus cunning, triumphing over mere willingness, with the brawn on its side not cutting any appreciable figure.

"New York Charley" White declared Levinsky the winner. First his call was applauded. Then, came quite a lot of hooting. All in all, the verdict failed to digest any too well with some 40 per cent. of the Armory members and ring talent present. But in the opinion of the AMERICAN'S boxing reporter, White made the proper award.

COWLER A GOOD ONE.

Cowler is a promising prospect. He won't be twenty-four until March. He's tall and rangy, and, though a 200-pounder, isn't especially big anywhere. To an extent he's an enlarged edition of good old Bob Fitz, and, while his jaw doesn't look tough, he took several dozen fairly stiff clouts from Levinsky—but then, the Battler was never rated a very hard hitter—without ever starting to topple over, though plainly mighty tired at several stages of the bout.

Cowler loored in from first to last. He wasn't whipped by Levinsky, but he was shaded, outpointed in eight of the twelve rounds. The fight, viewed by only a fair-sized house, nothing like the jam that turned out for White and Wells, pleased, on the whole. Cowler plugged along all the way and Levinsky only avoided receiving a trimming, and then pulling the fight out of the fire, by performing along the cleverest, ditto craftiest, lines.

Johnny Wilson, the New York welterweight, a newcomer hereabouts, made a big hit in the semi-windup event with Young Jasper. Wilson boxes with his right foot and right hand extended, no forms a very puzzling foe. He's a bear at the specialty, as good as they come in the second flight. Wilson got Jasper's number and treated the game North Ender to a merry mauling. Jasper was all but eliminated in the first round, but pluckily kept going and was as mad as the merry old hornet when his corner threw in the sponge in the midst of the second canto.

The two six-rounders afforded very fair sport. Teddy Murphy kept on his winning streak by outpointing Young Bowman, while Joe Camp, subbing for Brother John and making his bow as a "pro," was too long and too lanky for Young Brusso to reach, and did enough jabbing to get Phil Powers's award.

ARMORY A. A. RESULTS.

"Battling" Levinsky, New York, defeated Tom Cowler, England, twelve rounds.

Johnny Wilson, New York, stopped Young Jasper, North End, second round.

Joe Camp defeated Young Brusso, six rounds.

Teddy Murphy defeated Young Bowman, six rounds.

Battle to Break Deadlock in City League

CITY BOWLING LEAGUE fans will witness tonight a real battle for the leadership. The scraps will engage the entire first division.

MURRAY and Chauncy, locked in a tie for first place, will face teams some few pegs below their standard, but plenty good enough to give battle, which is the main thing, in fact, it would not be the least bit surprising if the two leaders came to grief.

MURRAY tackles Court Street. The latter is a corking good team, and, with "one surrounding, should give its guests a stiff tussle.

CHAUNCY goes against Faneuil Hall. The Felton-led aggregation is running a close fourth to Court Street, and, with an even break in luck, will make things troublesome for Beatty and his "wrecking crew."

THE Old Timers' Bowling Association holds its weekly meeting tomorrow evening at the Teele Square alleys, Somerville. As these lanes are under the personal supervision of Georgie McConville, the old Maine champion, the "men who made bowling" are assured a warm welcome.

THE South Boston Yacht Club will be the scene of one of the gala events of the bowling season on January 19, when a reception will be tendered the members of that organization, the new Ward 18 Democratic Club and the Dorchester Catholic Club by Thomas H. Glynn.

THE Catholic Club team will meet a quintet composed of politicians and some red-hot sport is promised. Frank Cook will lead the former out, while Fred Smith will direct the destinies of the "pols."

THE following bowlers have qualified for the Boston Loop tournament finals: Singles, O'Connor 1001, Wright 985, Mason 976, Mahoney 974, Roche 971, McPherson 969, Anderson 968, Brown 965, Sullivan 965, Swanson 963; two-men, Brown-Corey 1044, Cooper-Mahoney 1044, Brown-Swanson 1043, Smith-Sull. 1035, O'Neil-Smith 1023.

MAINTENANCE, one of the chief factors in last year's Elevated race, seems lost this season without its star bowler, Johnson. However, this team is holding fast and may yet be seen among the leaders.

THE Spanish War Veterans are willing a very interesting contest between Sanger and Everett. The former is leading by one point.

Boston Teams in League Game Tonight

Notwithstanding the membership of Robey Baker's St. Nicholas team in the Amateur Hockey League and the fact that they are the present title holders, there are many local fans who predict that the two local teams in that organization—the B. A. A. and the Harvard Club, which meet at the Boston Arena tonight, will be the ultimate winner of the long series of games.

Coach Ralph Winsor of the Harvard Club has the clever faculty of developing into good hockey players men who have been sent to the discard by other teams or who as college men failed to show sufficient promise to warrant their retention in the varsity squad. The game the new club played against the Crescent A. C. last week brought to light two men who, although lacking finish, are good hockey prospects in Roger Cutler and Sager, the goal tender.

It will be recalled that Gus Doty filled the breach for the Crimson varsity a year ago when Bill Claflin was hurt. So it was last week with Bob Clifford unable to appear for the Crescent game because of pressing business that Cutler was allowed in at cover-point and who, although a trifle slow, gave evidence that Winsor had grabbed another Hans Robbins. Cutler's exceptional reach and the bending pose of his body gives him a tremendous advantage over a forward line that depends principally on short dribbles to get inside a defence.

In the game between the Harvard Club and the B. A. A. tonight keen feeling is apt to creep out since men of both teams have been associated together in hockey for years, and naturally will do their utmost to show up the fellow. The feeling between these teams is about the same as that which exists between the Unicorn and the Arena Hockey Club. When one of these teams loses to the other the team on the wrong end cannot be convinced but that the better team lost.

The game will start at 8:15 with Fred Rocque and Dr. George W. Tingley officiating.

The advance sale of seats for the Harvard-Princeton game Saturday night is heavy. This night will be one of the best matches of the season and should go a long way toward figuring on the probable intercollegiate hockey champion.

BOXING BRIEFS and GOSSIP

THAT'S two straight for Manager Danny Morgan. He had running old Matt Wells in against Charley White and last night started "Battling" Levinsky.

WE chatted with Levinsky before he went on. The Battler played the role of promoter at Bridgeport, Ct., Monday night and was feeling mighty good at getting out a $2,400 house. His bit was $700, he said.

"I'M not just sure of my weight, but I guess I'm 177 or 178," stated Levinsky before going to his dressing room. "Yes, Cowler is pretty tough, and they tell me he has improved considerably since I beat him in New York last Summer."

JUST the same, Levinsky was sure of winning, while Morgan was really anticipating a kayo triumph inside of six or eight rounds.

THE successful boxer in these limited round scraps, though the Boston route runs two laps longer than the New York distance and doubles the Philly-Jack limit, must be cunning. Yes, cunningness is one of the best attributes of all in the makeup of the successful modern-day ringster.

WELLS fought a cunning fight against White and that's what won for Old Matt. Levinsky showed better craft than Cowler. Hence, he was bracketed.

IT is to be White vs. Azevedo at the Hip next Tuesday night. The tip is out that Wells is in no particular hurry to go on in a return scrap with White unless getting a vastly raised offer.

THE White-Azevedo bout should be pleasing. It really doesn't better than it first sounds. Willingness is Azevedo's middle cognomen and hajtime a sure-enough fighter is in against White, the fur flys.

LIKEWISE, does somebody go out. And to date it hasn't been White.

JOHNNY ERTLE, the bantamweight king, was introduced and warmly cheered. He's the greatest little boxing machine of them all, but his future would be rosier were he just about two pounds heavier.

AL SHUBERT, the New Bedford bantam, and the best boy of his pounds and inches in New England, was also presented.

IT looks like an Ertle-Shubert match for two or three weeks hence.

JOE EAGAN of the House of Mack is delighted over getting the wind-up number with "Wild Bill" Fleming at the Business Men's A. A. Friday night. Eagan stopped Young Wagner of New York in the eighth round at Pittsfield Monday night, which was going some as Wagner's record is quite recherche.

NEXT week's prelims at the Hip: Billy Shevlin vs. Tommy Moore, 6 rounds; Tommy Flanagan vs. Buddy Dolan, 6 rounds; Young Aronson vs. Willie Green, 6 rounds.

FREDERICKS IS DEAD.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—Charles A. Fredericks, secretary of the White Sox ever since Charley Comiskey removed from St. Paul to Chicago, though inactive of late years on account of ill-health, died here yesterday. He was thirty-eight years old.

LAST NIGHT IN RING

Manchester, N. H., Jan. 12.—Young Britt of New Bedford, Mass., and Howard McRae of Pawtucket, wood two rounds to a draw. McRae was "all to" in the first round, but recovered. Harry Wood of Revere won from Tommy McFarland of Boston; 10 rounds.

Worcester, R. I., Jan. 12.—"Wild Bill" Fleming gained the award over Johnny Kidd (Alpha) in a twelve-round bout. Fleming knocked Alberta down.

New Haven, Ct., Jan. 12.—Harry Williams and "Bobby" Ford boxed fifteen rounds to a draw. Ford scored himself by a shirtwaist finish.

No matter where he lives, if he speaks German he will be very pleased to receive a copy of the Deutsches Journal (New York City) 25th Anniversary Edition, Out Jan. 25th, 1916. Sent anywhere in U. S. 15c per copy.—Advt.

Up Goes Curtain on 3-Cushion Title Match

Alfredo De Oro, champion, and Lloyd Jevne, challenger, clash in their first block of points for the world's three-cushion title at Convention Hall tonight. It is a three nights' affair, 50 points per session, with Promoter Miah Murray's $500 purse. $300 in side bets, split 65-35, and the championship emblem going to the victor.

The two noted billiardists showed brilliant form in their final "workout" for their encounter Jevne, in a game with Charles Warren, one of the best of the local players, at the Imperial last night, scored 150 points while his opponent was counting 100. Jevne was in rare stroke. He unworked one run of 9, two of 6 and three of 5, which affords proof he was at his best.

Later in the evening De Oro went on with Earl B. Gillisie, another Boston star. Though Gillisie led the Cuban, 24-22, the latter finished in sensational style, registering his final 27 points while Gillisie was counting only four. In the second game Gillisie led De Oro, 48-46, only to have the "old fox" run out with a clever parcel of 8.

The De Oro-Jevne match is attracting country-wide attention and Miah Murray is to be congratulated upon bringing it to Boston. The advance sale indicates three gala "houses" at Convention Hall.

TWO FOXES SHOT AT SECOND DAY'S SHOW

Bedford, Jan. 12.—Two foxes, making a total of three pelts for the first two days, were brought down at yesterday's merry inning of the New England Fox Hunters' Club. The successful shots were A. B. Edwards of Woonsocket, R. I., and J. E. Cobb of Waltham. Between thirty-five and forty hunters were in the saddle. At the annual banquet held at the Bedford Hotel a turkey supper was served, with Everett L. Walling as toastmaster.

Corbett Unable to Come to Town

JAMES J. CORBETT, ex-heavyweight champion of the world, who had intended seconding Tom Cowler in the British boxer's battle with "Battling" Levinsky at the Hippodrome last night, and who contracted to "cover" the fight for the AMERICAN, was unable to come over from New York, owing to contracting a heavy cold and being prohibited by his physician from making the trip to Boston.

Corbett wired the AMERICAN in plenty of time yesterday to allow the AMERICAN to tell the boxing fans in its last edition that "Gentleman Jim" was unable to come over for the battle. His telegram:

New York, Jan. 11.
Sporting Editor,
AMERICAN,
Boston, Mass.:

Sorry, but am too ill to come to Boston. Impossible to fill contract to cover Cowler-Levinsky bout.

JAMES J. CORBETT.

NEW DATE IS NAMED FOR N. E. MEETING

The New England League and Eastern Association differences will be thrashed out at a special meeting in New York January 24, January 17 was the original date, but Secretary Farrell of the National Association announced the new date today.

Harvard Hockey Seven Flays Cornell, 2-0

Test for Harvard Club.

Referees—Dr. G. W. Tingley and Fred Rocque. Time—20-minute halves.

Cornell's hockey seven failed to duplicate its football eleven's triumph over Harvard in its tilt with the Crimson puck-pushers at the Arena last night. At that, Cornell put up a much stiffer fight than was anticipated, as its players have had little ice on Lake Cayuga so far this Winter and were reported to be in poor form. However, judged on the tight tussle they gave Harvard it was "bear talk"; flippant scandal.

Harvard was only able to score two goals on Cornell, but Wylde cleverly blocked all of Cornell's shots. Hence, the Crimson's net wasn't punched all evening, with Harvard's two counters netted the Ithacaridge team a 2 to 0 conquest.

Cornell's wings outplayed Harvard's, with Captain Babbitt—sounds much like Captain Barrett—the team's center, being the Red and White's best bet. Captain Morgan and Doty easily excelled for the Crimson. The first half ended with the tally 0-0, but in the second half Curtis and Doty shot the puck successfully for Harvard. A good-sized crowd saw the game.

On today's card Cornell plays Tech at the matinee, while Harvard Club tackles B. A. A. at the night performance.

GOLFERS IN GALA MATCH

Crack Field of Professionals Clash in Indoor Battle—New Game Making Hit.

By JOHN W. MORAN, JR.

SHORTLY after noon yesterday the writer went through the door leading into the old squash court at the B. A. A. clubhouse in Exeter street, just in time to hear the swish of a good full wooden shot.

By the time he got well into the court he saw the ball drop a good 200 yards away. George Bowden was at the propelling end of the club, and when he completed the 18 holes he was playing his medal card read 76.

Understand, the course that Bowden was playing was the Country Club, at Brookline, and a 76 there is some score. Just before the aforementioned happening Mike Brady had scored better than 7[illegible] over the Wollaston course. All of which goes to show that indoor golf is some pastime and that golfers can play at it without reserve. A full shot can be made and the player need not fear losing his ball.

Indoor golf has not actually taken a stranglehold on Boston as yet, but the chances are that ere another month rolls by golfers will be combating at the game in full force. There are three courses on which one can play the game at present, and the possibility is that more will come. Mike Brady, one of the best professionals in the land, is teaching at the B. A. A. Allied with him is George Fowden, the Tedesco "pro."

TOURNEY AT FILENE'S.

The game has advanced far enough to call for the holding of a professional tournament Saturday at Filene's, where Jack Blair, the Commonwealth "pro," is the tutor. Invitations have been sent to all professional golfers in Massachusetts to compete. A majority of them have replied favorably, and indications are that a fine field will be on hand Saturday.

Something which should interest women golfers is the appearance at Filene's next week of the only woman professional actively engaged in teaching. She is Mrs. Gourlay Dunn-Webb, a niece of the famous professional, Willie Dunn.

Mrs. Dunn-Webb will come to Filene's on Monday and remain for two weeks, during which time she will instruct women golfers who desire to perfect their game. Mrs. Dunn-Webb has been in New York for several months and recently agreed to come to Filene's after the management of the athletic department of that store made persistent efforts to secure her.

RESEMBLES REAL THING.

The indoor golf cages at the B. A. A. and Filene's are similar, except that in the case of the former the playing area is somewhat greater. However, there is sufficient room on the latter course to allow a player to smash the ball with full force and at the same time avoid any injury. The player can imagine he is playing any course in the country, certainly get good sport out of his indoor play.

For the tee shot one can use either driver, brassie or iron. If he use the driver and pastes the ball into a pocket designated it shall register as a 200-yard drive. If it be the brassie the drive shall go for 150 yards, and for a cleek the same distance.

For second shots the distance will vary from 135 to 175 yards, with the latter distance given for perfect shots. A long approach is good for from eighty to 140 yards, and a short pitch from eighty to 100. A perfectly played approach leaves a six-foot putt, while the slightest imperfection makes the putt a fifteen-footer.

Gilman Has Idea He Will Shine on the Slab

Coach Fred Mitchell of the Harvard Varsity has named Monday, February 14, as the date when he will start work with his battery candidates in the "cage" on Soldiers Field.

All Cambridge expects Eddie Mahan, the Crimson's best server, to have a banner year under Mitchell. "Billy" Boles is being touted as a possible wonder worker on the slab.

Joe Gilman, football [illegible] may report to Mitchell. W[illegible] Wilson, a pair of [illegible] are also hurlers of promise.

"Dick" Harte is the big noise on the catching staff. Truman Safford is another tidy receiver. Stephens, 1918, is also certain to be heard from in the spring.

BOSTON TEAM WINS Y. M. C. A. GAMES

It took the last [illegible] program, the running high jump, to settle honors in the [illegible] of the Greater Boston Y. M. C. A. League series, put on in the B. Y. M. C. A. gymnasium last [illegible] big crowd in attendance. [illegible] Boston team won second [illegible] Hiatt of Malden [illegible] and those points [illegible] the Huntington [illegible] score of the first. Boston [illegible] Newton 24, Somerville 18, Malden 13, Cambridge 8 and Everett 7.

Hiatt of Malden was the star of the senior competition. He annexed the running high jump [illegible] standing broad jump [illegible] second honors in the shot put.

One of the best races of the evening was the 300 yard [illegible] which Brainard of Boston won [illegible] narrow margin from Woodworth of Newton.

FIELDER JONES WILL HELP FRANK ISBELL

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 12.—Manager Fielder Jones of the new Browns announced today that the Des Moines Western League Club would serve as a farm for 1916. Frank Isbell, who played second base with the Chicago White Sox in 1906 when Jones was manager of the American League pennant winners and World's Champions, is managing Des Moines club. Isbell has been offered all of the surplus players, the rookies who will not be claimed by the major leagues through the waiver process. Jones has announced that his official list totals sixty-five players.

TUFTS WILL PUT ON BIG MAT TOURNEY

Dr. Leo R. Burnett, physical director of Tufts College, announces that an interclass wrestling tournament will be held in Goddard Gymnasium, February 16. There will be a wide enough range of weights to include all ambitious grapplers and Dr. Burnett looks for a field of at least fifty wrestlers to compete. If the tournament proves a success, Tufts will enter a team in the Intercollegiate A. A. championships.

Ray Fisher to Instruct at Pitching

[illegible] Springfield Y. M. C. A. College, according to an announcement made today.

Ray Fisher of the New York Americans has been secured as an instructor and Professor Elmer Berry is in charge of the course. Already thirty-[illegible] have signified their intention to taking the course and many others are expected to do the same.

Professor Berry states that the course, which begins in February, was not arranged to make pitchers of a large number of the students but was to give them the opportunity to obtain a working knowledge of pitching which would aid them in securing positions as coaches.

There will be twelve lectures given by Ray Fisher, who will supervise the instruction of the men. A defensive credit will be given for the course.

Soccer Shots

THERE are many teams that are handicapped in keeping players after it has been demonstrated that they are good, in every instance. The team that offers the best inducement to a player as far as positions are concerned secures the player, and generally these are taken from clubs that cannot find employment with a large remuneration because there are no business organization behind them.

IT is rumored that the Southbridge Optical Company will have a team next season, as also one from O'Sullivan's of rubber heel fame.

IT is the consensus of opinion that a [illegible] the [illegible] Electrics [illegible] of their own [illegible] from a standpoint of [illegible] financially as well.

THIS season this team has played several games away that were scheduled for their home grounds. It meant a loss of money, and it cannot be doubted that if their game against the Fall River Rovers was played as originally scheduled, it might have meant a victory instead of defeat. Any way a substantial gate would have been the result.

General Manager Fish has taken quite a little interest in the association connected with this team, and it is hoped that he will make his boys comfortable on this matter by securing this much needed thing. Financially it will be a success.

HAROLD DIXON and William Hallas of the Lonsdale F. C. and Luke Belanger of the Cove Albion F. C. are declared to be free agents and are now eligible to sign with any club they may see fit to join.

JOE GILMARTIN, the well-known Lawrence-Andover and Olympic player, who signed with Howard and Bulough of Pawtucket as a professional, intends to apply for reinstatement as an amateur.

AN effort is being made to revive league soccer in Manchester, N. H., next season. There is enough good players there to organize as good a team as there is in this State.

MANCHESTER has a strong schoolboys league but has no big league soccer. It would be for the good of the game if all factions could be brought together.

YALE FIVE HAS A SNAP

New Haven, Ct., Jan. 12.—Yale won its first basketball on the home schedule from Wesleyan, 63-10. Kinney was the Elis' star.

Food for Sport Fans

By GEORGE E. PHAIR.

Ambition to learn is present in most human breasts. Ted Lewis, for instance, desires a postgraduate course in boxing. He wants to meet Packey McFarland.

Mike Gibbons, when young, took boxing lessons from McFarland, but the last time they met he seemed to forget all he ever knew.

Says a press agent: Automobile drivers, as a class, are the most careful users of the streets." What troubles us is that they are not the most careful users of the pedestrians.

Bulletin: In an attack on Tom Jones, the New Orleans promoters were routed by a bombardment of poisonous gase.

Twinkle, twinkle, Fed League star,

Now I wonder where you are.

Wrestling, says Joe Stecher, is harder than plowing. If he is speaking for the spectators we agree with him.

One good jump deserves another. The jumpers in baseball are now being jumped on.

The report that New Orleans wants Welsh and White instead of Willard and Fulton leads us to remark that there will be little difference. Welsh and White can fight but won't; Willard and Fulton want to fight but can't.

There's gratitude in baseball after all. It is said that Charley Somers will be relieved of the Cleveland Club.

Possibly Norman Tabor will be surprised when he reads that Norm Faber holds the world's record for the mile run.

"I am the lightweight champ," said he,
Who weighed two hundred pounds or more;
"I made one hundred thirty-three One day in 1894."

SEARS NEW SKIPPER AND SEEKS NO. 600

H. M. Sears was elected commodore of the Eastern Yacht Club at its annual meeting held at the Algonquin Club last night. Maximilian Agassiz was elected vice-commodore and C. H. [illegible] rear commodore. The club's membership totals [illegible]89 and the number of yachts owned is 288.

TWO RECORDS LOWERED

New Orleans, La., Jan. 12.—Two Fair Grounds' records were lowered yesterday. Lucky R., carrying 96 pounds, cut the mile and twenty yards record to 1:40 2-5, while J. J. Lillis, 106, placed the mile mark at 1:37 4-5.

Hussane at Best for Bout with Andre Balsa

Yousouf Hussane, the noted Bulgarian wrestler, who registered a happy Boston hit when he wrestled Waldek Zbyszko to a draw in Mechanics Hall, New Year's night, will have another tough task tomorrow night at the Hippodrome when he hooks up with Andre Balsa, the big Spanish bull-wrestler, in a match to a finish, best two out of three falls, catch-as-catch-can variety.

It will be Balsa's first appearance here. He is rated one of the most aggressive and cleverest grapplers in the world and the match should give the fans plenty of action. Balsa will have the weight advantage of some ten pounds over Hussane, and this he figures with his great power and aggressiveness, will land him the winner.

ARION CLUB IS NAMED

New York, Jan. 12.—The Class A National Amateur 18.2 balkline tournament will be played at the Arion Club, New York, starting February 28 and continuing until March [illegible]. Julius Klinger of Austria will be among the starters. Louis Pose[illegible] was elected president of the National Association at its annual meeting held here yesterday.

WELSH-DUNDEE GO OFF.

New York, Jan. 12.—The Freddie Welsh-Johnny Dundee bout, scheduled for the Seventy-First Regiment Armory tomorrow night, has been declared off. Dundee left for the Pacific Coast today.

"THE RABBIT'S" COLUMN BY Walter J. Maranville SHORTSTOP OF THE BRAVES

While I am only guessing on the matter of new ownership of the New York Nationals, I am quite sure I am pretty close to the facts when I state that if the Giants are to be sold, it will be to Messrs. Sinclair and Gaffney. Mr. Sinclair wouldn't think of buying a club in a smaller city, and he couldn't become associated with any man more capable of leading the Giants than my old boss, James E. Gaffney. New York is his city and he would put new life into the club's direction. What he did in Boston is only a sample of what he could do in New York.

It will seem rather funny to be playing against the Giants with Mr. Gaffney as president. Baseball springs some peculiar ones, and I've seen a few in my short experience.

* * *

I think the last time President Haughton and Manager Stallings had a talk it was concerning the appointment of Fred Mitchell as coach of the Harvard baseball squad. George told Mr. Haughton that Fred was the best man he could pick, that while he regretted he would lose Mitchell's services, he felt that at Harvard Fred would become as popular in baseball as Haughton had been in football. I wonder if George had any idea that later he would be teamed with P. D. Haughton in directing the destiny of the Boston club? No, you can bet he didn't.

* * *

Secretary Eddie Riley and Manager Bill Carrigan say there is nothing in the rumor that Frank Hinkey has bought the Red Sox.

Heinie Wagner should find a berth as manager of some minor league club. The clever shortstop knows the game and has worked under some good managers. The fans will wish Heinie the best of luck wherever he goes.

* * *

That story of the abolition of the National Commission was a fine bloomer. The commission may be expensive, but it is no luxury. Without it, there would be no supreme court. The man who started the yarn knew very little about the workings of baseball as organized.

* * *

President T. H. Murnane of the New England League is of the opinion that the merger will be put through. There are, however, several matters to be settled with the New England League before that organization can take part in anything.

* * *

I expect to find the names of several prominent Bostonians on the lists of directors when the Boston National League Baseball Company announces the results of its annual meeting.

* * *

With the departure from Boston baseball of Messrs. Gaffney and Davis, comes also the severing of his connection with the club of Frederick R. Killeen. Mr. Killeen was not known to many people outside of club business, but those who did meet him, knew him to be a most capable official, well versed in baseball law.

Art Smith, U.-M. Track Coach, May Win

Philadelphia, Jan. 12.—The contest for the position of track coach and football trainer at the University of Pennsylvania has narrowed down to two men, Art Smith, at present coach at the University of Maine and Dr. Leroy Mercer. The latter was connected with Swarthmore last year.

There is still considerable uncertainty as to the staff of assistant coaches who will work with Bob Folwell next Fall. The football committee has had a meeting and it is believed have placed their seal of approval on several men. One rumor has it that Dr. Charles Wharton, line coach last year, will not be a member of the coaching staff this year.

Dr. Wharton, it is said, intends becoming a candidate for the office of Governor of Delaware on the Democratic ticket at the next election. Should this be true about Dr. Wharton, indications are that Gus Ziegler, the famous guard of 1905, will secure the post of line coach.

SINCLAIR ASTOUNDS FRIEND WEEGHMAN

Chicago, Jan. 12.—Harry Sinclair has put a price of [illegible] on Lee Magee and $50,000 on Benny Kauff, former Brookfeds stars. Charles Weeghman, new owner of the Cubs, wanted the players and tried to dicker with Sinclair. The prices astounded him.

"Youth and the Cup of Life"

By NELL BRINKLEY

YOUTH, with smooth [illegible] blossoming figure, wide seeking eyes and mind alert at last, leaving child faery tales unread for the great real faery tale of life with hands just curving for the treasures of love and life that come to woman, arms rounding and filling to smooth, soft lines, eyes and lips learning to droop and curve in coquetry and heart pulsing harder at the thought of the untried adventure that lies always around the bend in the path—Youth bends above the fragile, strong precious Cup of Life filled with its scented wine of radiant, throbbing colors of the prism—ceaselessly welling with a soft seeth of glowing bubbles—speaking to the eager face above it with a vague, remote music full of gifts unthinkable, peopled with the faery people—Fame, Love, Joy the Dream-giver—and offering against Youth's face a vapor of warm, bitter-sweet that is new and strong and all-powerful. The magic, lovely liquor of Life!

Youth peers and longs, with eyes alight from the upward glow of the jewelled drink. And if any who loves says, "Oh, not yet—you are such a Baby still," Youth chafes and anguishes at the delay. You who have felt the cup of life cool crystal against your lips and know the deeps of its rare delights—who have reached the quieter currents at the bottom of the glass below the boiling bubbles that break at the top—have found it sweet. But how much more glorious does it look—to Youth leaning above untasted yet!

Our Animals Tempted the Imagination

By GARRETT P. SERVISS.

As I was going through the Alhambra palace at Granada my guide pointed out an iron-railed balcony, like a huge cage [illegible] one of the co[illegible]

"There is a tradition that that is where the strange animals brought from America by Columbus were kept in the time of Ferdinand and Isabella. Some say it was a prison for the insane queen Joanna, mother [illegible] Emperor Charles V, but [illegible] was made for the animals [illegible] those brought by Columbus [illegible] those sent later from [illegible] Peru."

It would not be surprising if [the] guide's opinion were right, for the wild animals of America seen [illegible] sensation in Spain [illegible] that produced by [illegible] and women. Among these reptiles attracted so much attention from the Spaniards as the rattlesnakes which are called "serpents with castanets." (This refers to the famous Aztec feather work.) Like the bees, they live on flowers, and the dew which settles on them, and when the rainy season is over, and the dry weather sets in, they fasten themselves to the trees by their beaks and soon die. Are Women Loyal to Women?

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"N[illegible] a woman's friend because [illegible] another because a man generally steps in and prevents."

Like most clever cynicisms this statement comes tragically near being accurate. But there are rare cases in which men and women are loyal friends to one another—honest, kindly, truthful friends.

If loyalty of woman to woman existed generally the world would be an infinitely happier place for most of the women [who are] finding life today rather a tragic affair.

When two men admire the same woman they fight fair if they have any ideal of manhood. It may even be that one will step aside for the other—or else they come out in the open and battle honestly to see which one shall win the love both want.

When two women are in love with the same man there is hideous likelihood that they will resort to all sorts of underhand methods of gaining the love each desires. Consider all the "pirates of love" who deliberately set about stealing the affections of married men. Consider the woman who meets her best friend's fiance and uses every possible wile to attract him. Is not either type of woman an abhorrent creature when viewed dispassionately? And yet is either type rare?

There is no theft more utterly contemptible than the theft of affection. It is human nature—particularly in the lovishness at the base of masculine human nature—to be attracted to something new. The woman who takes advantage of this fact is disloyal to her sex, and so really to her own womanhood.

Down in the business world women are constantly thrown into a relationship of "conflicting interests"; they have work and desires in common with the men who go home tired at night into a very different world from that which is the their more buoyant energies of the day.

For the business woman to take advantage of her opportunity to make herself necessary to another woman's husband or [illegible] a violation of every [illegible] of integrity. If she were to put through a business deal with the same lack of principle she shows in her love dealings, the love thief would probably find herself arraigned in a criminal court.

Sex loyalty would prevent [illegible] does not.

Now what is at the base of all [illegible] acknowledged to be more sensitive than men and to be of finer moral fibre, and through ages of [illegible] living and morality to have better control over their emotions. Why, then, should women be disloyal to one another? Why should they be willing to steal one another's chance of business advancement, one another's ideas, ideals and even love?

The answer is so simple as to be almost tragic. The world has not given women an absolutely fair deal—an absolutely fair chance of self-expression, or a voice in regulating large affairs. Woman has had to fight with the weapons she found at hand. And if women fail, as fail they often do, in loyalty to one another, the reflection is largely on a world which has failed to be loyal to its wives, mothers and home-makers.

How I Discovered Myself

By ALICE SMITH,
Probation Officer of the New York City Night Court

STRANGE to say I always [illegible] would be a musician. [illegible] my calling today it would be hard to mention. However, I was [illegible] and when I [illegible] ambition of my life to go to New York to study.

Like many other girls I knew little or nothing about life alone in a city, and I had no idea how much money would be necessary to complete my musical training [illegible] to say that all too quickly my little store was used up. When I found that my money was gone and that it would be impossible for me to study as I had dreamed of doing, but instead I would have to go about looking for something to do in order to live, I took the first thing offered to me, an opportunity to work with women prisoners.

That was long before the probation law was passed. My work with the women prisoners developed my mind as nothing else could have. I learned what it meant to suffer. I learned how other woman reasoned, what their hopes and ambitions were. I know that there are many women in the world who have the privilege of teaching, of settlement working, of nursing, of countless things that might enable them to touch human lives and to see things that are absolute revelations.

But somehow it has always seemed that to work with women who have been sentenced to imprisonment, who are helpless in a way, and who have underneath just as much capacity for feeling as their more fortunate sisters, was my big opportunity.

I know I never formed my thoughts until then, and it was at that time that I began to dream of a wonderful time when a bill might be passed that would enable the first offender to be pardoned and helped to avoid a similar mistake.

In 1901 the probation law was passed, and in 1902 I was made probation officer. By that time I knew that my work with women was a life work, a life problem, offering unlimited possibilities to me and as much of a demand on my time as I could manage.

As I look back over my life I realize that my discovery of myself was gradual. It came through the force of circumstances and through no planning of my own. Its very simplicity strikes a keynote that is very gratifying to me [illegible] to think that I am doing the work that pleases me best and yet that I was [illegible] and that I [illegible]

I believe in dealing with women as women. There is no such things as common clay. We are all the same [illegible] the Colonel's lady [illegible] are sisters under the skin.

The woman who [illegible] woman is the woman [illegible] for most in the [illegible] and [illegible] development. Of course I [illegible] environment. It is ten times more important than heredity.

The women who [illegible] night court are [illegible] who have been forced [illegible] of life through the force of circumstances, just as I drifted into my own work. Opportunity is the one thing that will help to raise an individual and if the opportunity is not made for a person, in nine cases out of ten that person may not be able to make it for him or herself. That is why I think we are all responsible for what goes on about us. A helping hand means so much in many of these daily cases of ours.

I consider that without my work my character might or might not have reached its present development. I heartily advocate this diving below the surface into people's human qualities. Understanding is the one thing that will help us to make a fair judgment. Helping another woman to find herself is one of the greatest privileges given to us; it is all enveloping and means a life work for any woman who is willing and eager to devote her time to a career.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

WHY NOT HELP HIM?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have known a young man for the past three years. Occasionally he gets in a temper and says things which he afterward regrets, but which make me feel badly. He says he loves me and wants to marry me. Now do you think we would be happy if his bad temper still continues?

JANE M.

IF you yourself have control over your temper and [illegible] sweet and amiable in spite of any hurts which your friend's lack of control of his temper causes you you will probably be able to cure him of this fault. He will be much happier if he succeeds in conquering his temper, but the fact that he has one does not make him impossible as a husband and lover. But it will take tact and patience on your part to help him. Are you sure you have those?

DIFFERENCE IN AGES

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Should the fact that a young man is a year younger than a girl prevent a marriage? Lots of people say you never can be happy if the man is younger than the [illegible]

I[illegible]

IT SHOULD STOP IMMEDIATELY

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Do you believe a married man can be sincere in his love for a woman not his wife? A divorce cannot be obtained, as he hasn't any grounds. Should an affair like this stop? I am still young. We both love each other dearly, and to break our friendship would make us both very unhappy. C.

A MAN who sincerely loves a girl will not put her in a position where the world can judge her harshly. And when a married man is seen about with a young girl constantly her reputation suffers cruelly. An affair like this should stop at once. You will get over longing for the man with whom you think you are in love far more quickly than you can recover from the harm that will be done your reputation if you continue going about with him.

Be Careful in Using Soap on Your Hair

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best [illegible]

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in; about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.—Advertisement.

Purely Commercial

Even in this enlightened twentieth century we still live, so to speak, by taking in each other's washing. At any rate, even hatters must buy boots, just as bootmakers must buy hats.

So it came about that Mr. Gibson, the bootmaker, walked one day into the establishment of Mr. Brown to [illegible] To his surprise [illegible] Brown [illegible]

[illegible] peevish. Nothing doing all day; then came a bit of a rush, and a couple of customers walked out without being served."

The bootmaker stroked his chin reflectively.

"Um!" he remarked. "Annoying, that sort of thing—very annoying! But that's just where I score over you, my friend. You see, when I get a would-be customer, I take good care that his shoes come off as soon as he comes in."

Daily Cooking Suggestion

EVERLASTING BUCKWHEAT CAKES

Start at night. One cup of sour milk, one teaspoon salt, one tablespoon molasses, buckwheat flour to make a thick batter. In the morning take one teaspoon of soda, one-half cup of cold water and add to batter. Always leave some batter to start the next time and you will have nice cakes every morning. By adding soda you need sour milk the first time only. You may use water after the first, or they are started with yeast.

Her Poor Appetite

The theatrical manager leaned wearily against the desk in the office of the hotel.

"Well, how goes it?" said the clerk.

The manager shrugged his shoulders without replying.

"Good business?"

The manager evaded the question. "I'm afraid we may have to close before the season's over. My star's ill. When she comes to the theatre at night she's hardly able to get through her work. She says she can't eat anything."

Just then the telephone bell rang. The clerk turned to answer it. After listening for a moment he said: "Wait till I get a pencil. I've got to write that down."

As he wrote he repeated: "Mock turtle soup, sole, porterhouse steak, half a chicken, mashed potatoes, cabbage, tomato salad, apple-tart, cheese and coffee. Whew!" Then he shouted into the phone: "How many is that dinner for? One? Whew!"

Then he turned to the manager. "That's your star's dinner," he said quietly.

Don't Merely "Stop" a Cough

Stop the Thing that Causes It and the Cough will Stop Itself

A cough is really one of our best friends. It warns us that there is inflammation or obstruction in a dangerous place. Therefore, when you get a bad cough don't proceed to dose yourself with a lot of drugs that merely stop the cough temporarily by deadening the throat nerves. Treat the cause—heal the inflamed membranes. Here is a home-made remedy that gets right at the cause and will make an obstinate cough vanish more quickly than you ever thought possible.

Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth) in a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. This gives you a full pint of the most pleasant and effective cough remedy you ever used, at a cost of only 54 cents. No bother to prepare. Full directions with Pinex.

It heals the inflamed membranes so gently and promptly that you wonder how it does it. Also loosens a dry hoarse or tight cough and stops the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the persistent loose cough.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, rich in guaiacol and is famous the world over for its healing effect on the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex," and don't accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.—Advertisement.

WARD 19 WILL PROTEST 'L' SERVICE

Many complaints are being made in Roxbury by persons who have suffered the abolition by the Elevated of stops in the vicinity of Brigham Circle, in addition to the overcrowding of cars which come through Huntington avenue from Brookline and Jamaica Plain.

Citizens of Ward 19 are aroused over conditions which exist there and have planned a monster indignation meeting at the Martin Grammar School, Huntington avenue and Worthington street, Roxbury, for Friday night.

Frank McCourt, a contractor, living at No. 46 Walt street, Roxbury, says:

"It is preposterous to give a section such as that between Brookline and Massachusetts avenue—which is really the new Ward 14—the service which is accorded it by the Elevated. They claim they have large expenditures to meet, but is not their business increasing with the times and the growing population.

"They say it is necessary to effect economy in operating their system, but why has a neighborhood which has a population of 10,000 got to be neglected, as is the case with the patrons of Lie 'L' who live on Huntington avenue and adjacent streets between Brookline and the Back Bay.

"The same story is applicable to the line operated to the Dudley street terminal. At one time we at least had standing room in the cars which came from Brookline, but now, with cars coming from Allston, we are fortunate if we can be given space on the step of the car.

"The cars from this point as well as Cypress street, whose destination is Dudley street, are increasing their number of passengers. Many persons board at the Village transfer station, and, of course, when their cars reach Roxbury there is seldom a seat left and more often not even standing room.

ASKS STOP BACK.

"The Elevated must bring a strong argument to warrant the changes of the stops at Calumet street and at Walt street which have been in existence since we first saw cars. I think it pertinent to ask the officials to replace these stops and give us cars with more than standing room when they reach this vicinity."

"Removing these stops in the vicinity of Brigham Circle, in my judgment, is not the best remedy to relieve the difficulties," says Daniel Thompson of Wigglesworth street, Roxbury. "Reference has been made to an undue number of stops. I have lived in that section of Roxbury for years, it is the centre of that district.

"Patrons of the Elevated are obliged to stand out in the sleet and snow for periods of five to fifteen minutes for cars to take them to their destination. Often the cars are crowded and it is necessary for them to wait longer.

"On the whole the residents of the Mission Hill section and Francis street are not best served with the stop at the present location. What we need is competition or public ownership."

Miss Mary Fitzgerald of Francis street, Roxbury, says that with the stop at the Farragut School it is a great inconvenience.

"Cars coming from Brookline to the Elevated approach frequently without stopping for passengers and I am forced to wait for another car. We have not enough cars. I think it of vital importance to the residents that both stops be restored."

FIREMEN DELAYED.

With a serious fire on Fenwood road Monday, fire apparatus approached from Huntington avenue. Firemen said at that time had there been two or three cars tied up at this newly created stop they would have been delayed long enough for the fire to have got beyond their control. One of the firemen said that this incident ought to demonstrated the danger. Several other firemen at dinner when the alarm came in said they waited at Roxbury Crossing fifteen minutes for a car.

Timothy Toomey of No. 34 Francis street declared:

"The new arrangement, whereby we are forced to walk an extra distance of over 200 feet to the new stop or walk 400 feet more to the stop at Tremont street, is a disgrace. How can a public service corporation stand out and say that it is good railroading and that it is doing the greatest good to the greatest number?"

"I would to say that there is not a stop on the Elevated line between Brookline Village and Massachusetts avenue where there are as many patrons boarding cars during the day as did when the stop was at Calumet street.

"I trust the L officials will give the matter serious consideration and replace what rightfully belongs to us."

John C. Crossen of No. 55 Calumet street says:

"The service is abominable. It took forty minutes for me to ride from Boylston street tunnel to Parker and Tremont streets, yesterday afternoon. At Dudley street I waited for fifteen minutes for a car. They are supposed to be operated on five minute time. I am told that many cars have been taken off by the railroad on Huntington avenue during the past year.

"The Reservoir line should be restored through Huntington avenue to the subway. I am told they are planning to discontinue the Allston subway line. If that is done what will we have then? The Cypress street line runs every fifteen minutes from 8.45 a. m. to 4 p. m. and after that every seven and eight minutes until 6.30 and then again on fifteen minute time. I imagine if the Allston line is discontinued it means that the L plans on the trailer car which comes in the near future will take care of the situation. The stops should also be restored."

"Conditions are deplorable. What relief are the residents of the Parker Hill section to receive from the Boston Elevated?" said Frank Nolan of Calumet street, Roxbury. "Why did not the officials of the Elevated present a good reason for removing the stop at Calumet street before it was used in that obscure spot in front of Fenwood road?"

"That can be readily answered. Without competition they have the mistaken idea that the public will tolerate anything the Elevated may take in consideration to undertake if it were not for the patrons that are pouring money into this corporation's treasury annually where would they be? It is to be regretted that there is no competition.

National Banks Get an Infusion of New Blood by the Advent of Successful Men of Affairs as a Result of the Clayton Anti-Trust Law

MANY CHANGES IN BIG BANK BOARDS

By B. C. FORBES.

New York, Jan. 12.—"You can't divorce managership from control.

"The people who own a business are going to control it and direct its operations.

"The 'interlocking directorate' law or any other law cannot upset that elementary principle.

"If the principal interests in institutions cannot act as directors, they will, nevertheless, direct—through others."

This was the frank comment made today by the most influential active national bank manager in America.

* * *

To comply with the Clayton anti-trust law, which prohibits any bank director from sitting on more than one board, many changes were made in the make-up of national bank boards. The law applies only to institutions having resources of more than $5,000,000. It takes effect on October 15. Scores of other changes will have to be made before that date.

* * *

The chief tendencies revealed by the elections at the annual meetings of the national bank stockholders were:

The retirement of the bank presidents from the boards of other banks.

The selection of well-known business, as distinct from financial men, as new directors.

The infusion of new blood from other cities in the form of successful men of affairs.

The election of vice-presidents as directors.

Reduction in the size of boards through the non-filling of vacancies caused by retirements, etc.

* * *

The aim of the legislators is to decentralize the "money power" to split up the "charmed circle" which Washington solons saw in New York.

I have quoted the views of New York's best known national banker on how far this can be accomplished by law.

Without doubt the law will lead to the election of figureheads in many cases—any vice-president named to sit as a director, for example, is little likely to attempt to upset the plans or policies of the dominating interests.

* * *

Without doubt ownership will still retain direction of the management.

Without doubt directorates in some cases will be weakened.

Yet, in my opinion, the net result will be, not hurtful, but beneficial.

* * *

Honors will be more widely distributed. Greater diversification of interests and of business experience will be effected.

No harm will result to themselves or to the public by the withdrawal of a few powerful bankers from a multiplicity of boards.

DEAD EMPLOYE'S SUIT WON BY CITY

The full bench of the Supreme Court has sustained the exceptions of the City of Boston in the case of Thomas H. Kenney, employed until his death as custodian of Curtis Hall, Jamaica Plain.

As a result the city will not have to pay his sister, Anne U., the sum of $4,000 in weekly installments of $10, as decreed by the Industrial Accident Board and affirmed by the Superior Court.

While employed by the city, Kenney crushed his finger. He contracted blood poisoning from the injury and died January 5, 1915.

He lived at No. 24 John Andrew street with two sisters, Anne U. and Jane E. Kenney. The latter supported herself while the former kept house at the request of her brother.

At the hearing before the Accident Board, the city held that as Anne had a bank deposit of $600 and interest in a house, she was entitled to but partial compensation.

The Accident Board, however, ruled otherwise and the Superior Court affirmed its decision.

QUESTIONS RIGHTS OF NATIONAL BANKS

The right of national banks to act as trustees or executors of estates within this Commonwealth is raised in a bill in equity just filed in the Supreme Court by Attorney-General Attwill, at the relation of William D. T. Trefry, commissioner of corporations.

The bill is brought against the National Shawmut Bank. The Attorney-General asks the court to restrain it from exercising or attempting to exercise in this State the franchise or privilege of acting as trustee, executor, administrator and registrar of stocks and bonds, contrary to the charter of the bank.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKET

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks opened irregular in New York with the price trend uncertain and fluctuations narrow. The market was fairly active. Railroads appeared to have the most support, but no class had strength and none in earliest trading was especially weak. A number of issues were erratic. Studebaker was an example. It opened 1½ off, almost immediately recovered and showed a gain and then eased off. Mexican Petroleum performed similarly. The market, in fact, acted about as it did yesterday. It was a question when prices were going to touch a level which would induce big interests and investors to inaugurate a buying movement. One opinion heard was that it looked as if the long expected readjustment was in process. War stocks were steadier than they were towards the close yesterday. Bears resumed their study of the list to learn where selling pressure would have most effect.

EARLY GAINS AND LOSSES.

At the end of fifteen minutes the market had not changed much. On the whole the list appeared steadier. The advance of U. S. Steel was a favorable factor, as was the recovery by American Smelting, Baldwin and a number of other issues. They made the bears cautious.

At 10:15 gains included American Can ⅞, Anaconda ⅛, U. S. Steel ⅛, Car and Foundry ¼, American Loco ½, Baldwin ½, Colorado Fuel ⅛, Lackawanna Steel ¼, Great Northern Ore ¼, Westinghouse ⅛, Texas Co. ⅝, California Petroleum ½, Goodrich ¼, Union Pacific ⅜, Northern Pacific ⅜, New Haven ¼, N. Y. Central ⅜, Chesapeake & Ohio ⅛ and Canadian Pacific ¼. Anglo-French bonds were unchanged at 95½.

Among declines were Alaska Gold ¼, American Smelting ⅝, Chino ½, Utah ⅜, Crucible ¼, Distillers ⅛, Mexican Petroleum ¼, Republic Steel ¼, Studebaker ¾, Pressed Steel Car ⅛, American Steel Foundries ½, Reading ⅛ and Southern Pacific ⅛.

The list remained irregular at the end of thirty minutes, and towards the end of the first hour there was little alteration in the tone.

DECLINES GENERAL HERE.

Most issues on the Boston list that were at all active eased off at the opening. The local market acted in sympathy with New York. In the latter city, it is said, much of the recent selling there originated here. United Shoe was one of the few issues to show early strength.

Among recessions soon after the opening were Copper Range ½, Greene-Cananea 1¼, Old Dominion ½, Mohawk ½, Trinity ⅛, Utah Consolidated ½, U. S. Smelting ¼ and Boston & Maine ¼.

Gains included Granby ⅝ and United Shoe ½.

Butte & Superior was unchanged, and American Zinc had not been traded in up to that time. When it appeared on the tape it was up ½.

BEARS POUND WAR STOCKS.

War stocks have been pounded by bears this week and many speculators have found margin requirements too great for them to hold on. This class of issues has been most alluring to the public, and stories of great fortunes made through their advance caused a speculative craze which evidently has died out.

The trend is now toward what are called standard stocks, particularly railroads. The latter withstood selling pressure yesterday better than any class. Their earnings are large and they, as usual, are reflecting truly the prosperity of the nation.

The following table shows how war stocks have declined from pinnacle prices:

	Low.	High.	Yesterday's close.	Dec.

PLENTY OF MONEY HERE.

That there is plenty of money in Boston and in fact in New England is shown in the reports of the two largest banks in the latter section of the country. They rank for that matter among the largest in the world. The National Shawmut Bank at the close of business on the first day of this year had deposits totalling $117,844,555.28. Its report as to condition on January, 1916, is as follows:

FINANCIAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

Great Northern's gain in gross for November was $2,988,874 and in net $2,428,328. Delaware and Hudson's gross increased $380,677, its net $228,500.

At the end of June last there were 27,062 banks in the United States and they held securities to the value at par of $5,881,000,000, an increase of $297,000,000 in a year. The banks increased 297 in number.

At the end of 1915 the city of Boston had a cash balance of $5,416,184 compared with $4,660,106, exclusive of trust and sinking funds, a year previous.

Cotton mills in this country have been busy. Active spindles in 1915 numbered 31,964,235, or 13,337 less than in 1914.

It is estimated that American Can's net earnings for 1916 will approximate $15,000,000, which would represent profits equal to about 25 per cent, on common stock after allowing for bond interest, sinking fund charges, 3½ per cent in back dividends due on the preferred stock and the regular 7 per cent preferred dividends.

The action by the directors of the First National will follow.

MOTOR NOTES

By J. C. KERRISON.

John N. Willy, president of the Willys-Overland Company, has issued a circular to the stockholders regarding the recently announced $15,000,000 convertible 7 per cent. preferred stock issue.

The circular says that the earnings for the year ended December 31, 1915, partly estimated, were $10,000,000, or more than nine and one-half times the preferred dividend requirements on the new $15,000,000 issue and equal to 45 per cent. on the common stock.

R. B. Nettleton of the Chandler Motor Company is confined to his home with a severe cold contracted at the New York show.

New York reports that F. A. Hinchcliffe, the local Winton manager, has passed the danger point and his rapid recovery is now anticipated. Mr. Hinchcliffe was taken seriously ill during the New York exhibit, and his friends throughout the country will be pleased to learn of the improvement he has made.

The new eight-cylinder Peerless was due to arrive in Boston today, where it was expected it would make as favorable an impression as it created at the New York show.

Pianos and Musical Instruments.

CHAS. S. NORRIS
181 Piano Warerooms
Tremont St., Boston

This picture tells the story
The Autopiano

"The Joy of Having Music in the Home."

If you have an idle piano—with no one to play it—exchange it for a player-piano, then you can play and enjoy the full pleasure of music. It means that the world's music in opera, hymns, dance music and popular airs can be yours if you say the word. The instrument can be played by hand in the ordinary way or by inserting a roll of music which we furnish FREE of charge; therefore, no training in music is necessary.

Our Co-operative Player Piano Club Saves You More Than $100

By joining our club you pay only the "co-operative plan" price—we'll make a liberal allowance for your piano—and the balance in cash or monthly payments. You receive the Player-Piano at once with a stool or bench and music; freight paid to destination.

Send for illustrated catalogue and membership details of this wonderful plan at once

One Wide Awake Board of Really Big Men Should Look After Massachusetts' Harbors and Waterways

Governor McCall Is Right; the Board of Port Directors and the Harbor and Land Commission Should Be Consolidated, and Then Men of Vision and Courage Should Be Appointed Who Will Secure for Massachusetts Her Share of the Wonderful and Growing Opportunities in the Great World's Commerce

HOWEVER much we may disagree with SOME of Governor McCall's suggestions in the inaugural message, and his batting average is unusually good, the AMERICAN has very little doubt that he is right in suggesting the consolidation of the Boston Board of Port Directors with the Harbor and Land Commission.

The work of both commissions is of the same general character, differing only in degree; the extent, importance and expense of the port of Boston overshadowing the other smaller yet very necessary and available harbors of the Commonwealth.

Lowell and Lawrence, on the Merrimac, are of size sufficient to warrant the earnest consideration of the best authorities on harbor development. Likewise Fall River and New Bedford, important manufacturing seaports, whose successes would be richly enhanced by improved water and rail facilities. The Connecticut River, a most important arm of the sea, should be made a waterway of the first importance.

Congressman Treadway has offered a bill in Congress to secure an appropriation to improve the Connecticut River in order that Springfield, Holyoke and Chicopee may have direct water transportation to the sea. These three cities are not more inland cities than Antwerp and Hamburg, which ports have become in forty years the leaders in continental Europe. What has been done on the Scheldt and the Elbe can be done on the Connecticut.

The Port Directors of Boston dig channels at Winthrop, and down shore a few feet the Harbor and Land Commissioners improve the Saugus River. Lynn Harbor is but a continuation of Boston Harbor and should be treated as such, yet the Port Directors of Boston are not concerned with the improvement of Lynn Harbor, this being within the jurisdiction of the Harbor and Land Commission.

The Cape Cod Canal, one of the most important waterways on the Atlantic Coast, and of the greatest future importance to Boston Harbor, therefore a fitting subject for the careful study of the Port Directors, is within the care of the Harbor and Land Commission. Why all the unnecessary overhead expense of two boards dealing with this one problem?

When the Directors of the Port of Boston were created the old Board of Harbor and Land Commissioners was in a somnolent condition. It did not respond to the quickened pulse of Boston's commercial enterprise, which was demanding additional facilities for commerce and necessary improvements in Boston Harbor. But the present Port Board is as torpid as the old Harbor and Land Commission.

The new board should devote itself to Massachusetts, not one big harbor or a lot of minor harbors, but to the entire State. Massachusetts at this moment should be participating in the benefits of the enormous export trade which has congested New York Harbor and added to the riches of the great metropolis. The moment New York was found to be overloaded with freight a Massachusetts board with initiative and practical knowledge of steamship and railroad co-operation would have secured the surplus New York business.

The Port of Boston is a State institution, a national asset, and should be treated not as a city port alone, but as a vital integral part of the shipping system of the United States. A State Commission should co-operate with the Interstate Commerce Commission to the end that the harbors and railroads of the State might harmoniously and continuously work together.

The opportunities of the future at home and abroad promise great success for this Commonwealth. But we need to put these opportunities in the hands of really big men who have vision, imagination and courage, and who have sufficient leadership and public confidence to get things done they believe ought to be done to give Massachusetts her share in the tremendous new deal of the great world's commerce.

Once-Overs

You must expect that boy of yours will be given a nickname when he starts to school.

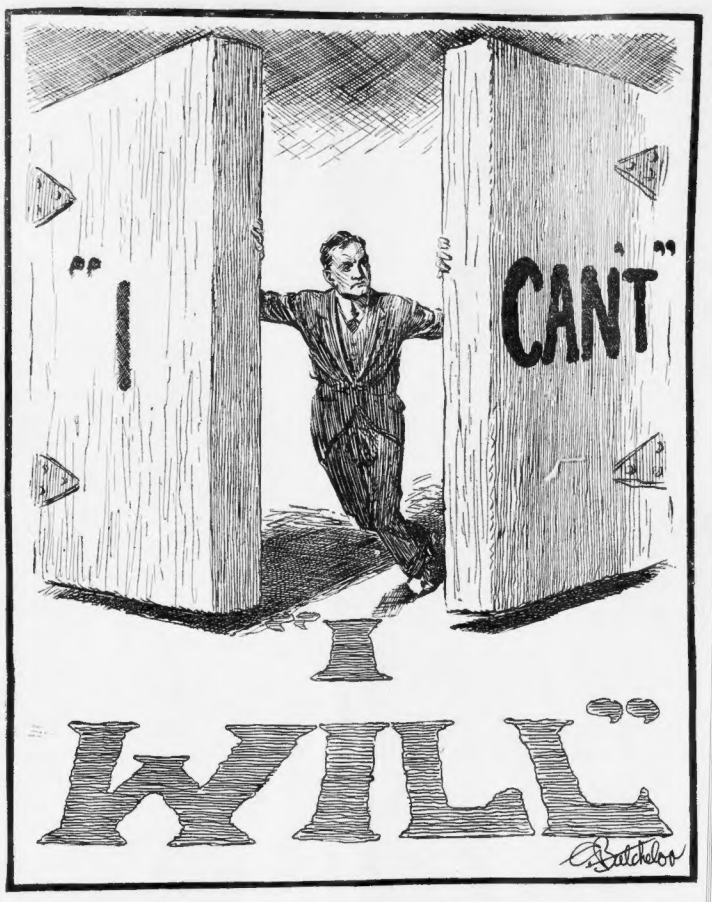
If he does not get one he does not amount to much in the estimation of those with whom he associates.

It may be somewhat of a shock to you when you hear him called "Slats," "Beef," "Spud" or "Slats," but if he is a real boy he will get some other name than the one so carefully selected for him, and one of which you never miss a syllable in pronouncing.

What red-blooded American boy is going to say Archibald when "Arch" will do just as well?

The boy who is called "Stub" today is more than likely to be the one who will amount to something in the future.

SWING OPEN THE DOORS



"I can't!" bars the way to success. It looks a formidable obstacle, but if you go at it with determination the doors will swing open easily enough and you'll find "I will!" overcoming every hindrance

The Boston AMERICAN, in addition to its money contributions to this fund, bore all the various expenses incidental to such work; and the services of its employes in such departments as could give aid, were voluntarily, cheerfully and enthusiastically given to carry the work to a timely, proper and successful conclusion, and to fulfil the purpose of this collection in its highest sense.

Our Battle with Pneumonia

By Woods Hutchinson, M. D.

The World's Best Known Writer on Medical Subjects.

PART TWO

ABOUT three years ago Dr. Rosenow, of the University of Chicago, announced the results of an exceedingly brilliant and ingenious study of the different forms of streptococci, the parent type of germ from which most of the pneumococci were believed to be derived, and the changes in virulence or deadliness which they would undergo under different methods of cultivation and treatment.

To put it very roughly, the practical result of his researches was that these streptococci, which are the ordinary pus germs of "dirty," suppurating and infected wounds, could, under certain conditions, become incubated or hatched to a higher degree of poisonousness, so that they would attack the great vital organs of the body, the lungs, the heart, the stomach, the intestines or the joints.

After a particular group or strain had acquired the faculty of attacking the lung, it became for all practical purposes a pneumococcus, and, if inoculated into an animal, would "breed true" and show a tendency to attack the lung in that animal.

Under a somewhat different form of hatching the streptococcus would acquire an aptitude for the heart and the joints and then become the streptococcus of rheumatism.

The Test

The next thing was, of course, to test out his theory, and the last month has seen reports of results based upon Rosenow's method from two different institutions, the University of Chicago Hospital and the Hospital of the Rockefeller Institute in New York.

One hospital was using a vaccine consisting of an injection of a large number of dead germs of the pneumococcus type grown in animals, or of what are known as detoxicated or "unpoisoned" living germs of the same type; the other, with a serum extracted from the blood of animals who had been injected with cultures of pneumococci and recovered. Both were most encouraging.

Both had confined themselves chiefly to cases of the severest type of the disease, known as lobar pneumonia, and which finds a large share of its victims among chronic alcoholics, who were particularly numerous in the Chicago series of cases, as they occurred in a large general city hospital.

The mortality for this type of the disease in later adult and middle life in the hospital classes ranges from 25 to 50 per cent., and in private practice from 25 to 75 per cent.

This grave mortality has already been reduced by the vaccine method in hospital cases about 14 per cent. and by the serum method to a better nurtured and more favorable class of cases to about 5 per cent.

A Great Record

"In fact," Dr. Dochez of the Rockefeller Institute reports, "in the last two years we have not lost a single case."

These results, of course, have been obtained in the most expert hands under the most favorable of circumstances, particularly those at the hospital of the Rockefeller Institute. But they certainly give us good grounds for the hope that we are not only on the right track, but that substantial progress has already been made in the direction of reducing the mortality and controlling the ravages of what is now our most deadly and dangerous single acute disease.

The community will owe a huge debt of gratitude to Dr. Rosenow if these encouraging results continue in general practise and in taller and less perfectly equipped hospitals.

Earth Trying to Become a Pyramid

It Can Never Succeed, but Its Convulsive Efforts Have Resulted in the Characteristic Shapes of the Continents and the Line of the Ocean Basins

By Garrett P. Serviss

ALL language, as well as all human knowledge, is approximative. We call the earth a globe, which is approximately true, but it would puzzle the wisest geologist or geographer to describe the actual shape of the earth.

In fact, we do not know exactly what the shape is, and anyhow, it is probably changing all the time, so that a careful survey repeated at intervals would show continual fluctuations of form and outline. These are so slight, in a relative sense, that only scientific methods render them evident, but they have had, and may again have, tremendous consequences.

Here is a subject for educative meditation. The earth is constantly trying to become a pyramid by distorting its globe into a tetrahedron. Through long continued effort of this kind it has developed the ocean basins, the continental plateaux, the principal mountain chains, and the lines of weakness in its crust where earthquakes and volcanoes most abound.

The cause of it all is the fact that the earth is a slowly cooling mass, and that as its heat leaks away the interior contracts, like the wagonmaker's chilled iron tire shrinking upon its felly, while the hardened crust sinks down to keep in touch with the underpinning. This is the source of all the geological woes from which the earth has suffered since it ensphered itself in a shell of rock and took the ocean to its bosom from the cloud-choked atmosphere above.

There is a very interesting reason which will tickle all the school children who are fond of geometry why the earth tries to take the form of a tetrahedron as its crust gradually collapses upon the shrinking core. The reason is because the tetrahedron, or regular pyramid, is the solid which contains the smallest volume for a given amount of surface, and as the earth shrinks from the form of a sphere, which is the solid containing the greatest volume for a given surface, its rigid crust, trying to adjust itself to a lessened volume within, tends to assume the external shape of a tetrahedron.

If this tendency could be fully carried through the earth would finally amaze the watching astronomers of other worlds by turning from a globe into a figure roughly resembling the great pyramid of Cheops in Eypt, except that instead of having four triangular faces rising from a square base it would present four sides in all, each bounded by an equilateral triangle.

But of course, a transformation of that kind can never take place because as fast as the crust settles down and the ratio of volume to surface is thus readjusted, the outline of the shell must resume the spherical cast.

Yet to the conflict of these two tendencies it is probable the earth owes the permanence of its main continental outlines, of its principal mountain ranges and of its great sea basins.

"The "tetrahedral theory," which we owe to Lowthian Green, and which you will find developed in his book, "Vestiges of the Molten Earth," and illustrated in many ways in later scientific literature, offers a striking explanation of such puzzling facts as the tendency of the large continents to stretch out toward the south, the grouping of land principally in the Northern Hemisphere and of water in the Southern, the north-and-south trend of the mountain backbone of the Americas, which lies on one of the bounding edges of the tetrahedroid and the curiously opposite state of affairs about the two Poles, where we find the north in a sea basin and the south on a high, isolated continent. According to the theory, the North Pole is situated in the middle of one of the pyramidial faces and the South Pole on the contraposed apex.

This theory, which undertakes to account at least in a general way for all the chief features of the earth's surface, leaves no room for the hypothesis, which has been advanced in recent times that the vast Pacific Ocean basin is the "scar" left by the wrenching off of the moon when, according to George Darwin's idea, that body was "born" from the earth through tidal forces. But that is pure speculation.

A Chicago correspondent, interested in these questions about our home in space, asks how many continents there are, anyway, since the school books in Chicago say six and a European authority says only five. The answer depends upon several things, and first upon how you choose to group the continents. According to many geographers, Asia and Europe should be regarded as constituting a single continent, and called Eurasia.

Some would even combine North and South America into one. This would leave only four continents—Eurasia, Africa, America and Australia, or, if the Americas are kept separate, five.

Then the answer also depends upon what you regard as a continent; how much land does it take? The right of Australia to rank as a continent is sometimes disputed, but it is generally admitted, as it ought to be. Australia is about as great in extent as the whole United States, and it occupies an independent situation in the midst of the immense oceanic region of the Southern Hemisphere.

It is slightly small for a continent, but humensely big for an island. There is a sixth, or seventh, candidate for continental honors in the great, loft- land that carries the snowy South Pole at its centre, and it is not likely that this will ever be spoken of other than as the Antarctic Continent.
